Economy Group Admits Truman Has Whip Hand

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

Washington June 8 (AP) — An economy drive picked up at least temporary strength in the Senate today but one of its leaders observed that President Truman holds the whip hand.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark) told a reporter that most economy moves—if passed by Congress—probably will run into a presidential veto.

As chairman of the Senate Expenditures committee, McClellan is working on a measure aiming at a balanced budget for the new fiscal year that begins next month. It would propose to trim about three billion dollars from President Truman's original budget for spending just under $42,000,000,000.

"That's about the best that Congress can do now," McClellan said. "If the President should veto it, then that would be his responsibility."

Meanwhile the Senate for the first time this session cut a major appropriations bill below amounts voted by the House.

It passed by voice vote late yesterday the annual money bill for the state, justice and commerce departments and the federal judiciary, containing $671,782,281 less cash than voted by the House.

Part of this cash savings was offset by upping contract authority—or the right to spend and ask Congress to pay later—by $6-100,000 to a total of $68,700,000.

One of the biggest economy tests was set in the opening of hearings (1 p. m. EST) by an appropriations subcommittee on the $5,617,440,000 foreign aid bill passed by the House.

Many senators have been talking about cutting a billion dollars or more from this. It provides the bulk of funds for the second year of the European recovery program.

The President originally asked $6,322,200,000 for foreign aid and at first the House threatened a sharp cut. Later it voted to allow the economic corporation administration to spend all funds provided in a little over a year instead of 15 months if necessary.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) GOP spokesman on international affairs, told a reporter he would back the ECA in opposing further Senate reductions.

But Vandenberg said that if Congress later agrees upon some overall cutback of 5 per cent or so on all spending, he would vote to include ECA on this.

Lower Wage Sought By Southern Mines

Operators May Ask End Of $100 Pensions

By HERB LITTLE

Bluefield, W. Va., June 8 (AP)—Southern producers may ask John L. Lewis' contract bargaining team today for a lower wage scale than the rest of the soft coal industry.

Operators were expected to add to the proposals they already have put before the United Mine Workers in contract negotiations here. There were indications a bid to bring back the old southern pay differential might be among the new ones.

A fight over the union's $100,000,000 a year welfare and pension fund also was in prospect in the closed sessions. Under the present contract, which runs out June 30, operators pay 20 cents on every ton of coal to support the fund.

President Joseph E. Moody of the Southern Coal Producers Association has hinted the operators may ask an end to the $100-a-month pensions paid for out of the fund, although he hasn't said so flatly.

Moody is on record in favor of a fund to take care of need and distress of employes, but only "when that need and distress results from and occurs during the course of employment in our mines."

UMW negotiators, headed by Secretary-Treasurer John Owens in the absence of Lewis, have not said when they will get around to making their own proposals.

But they are expected to include demands for a bigger welfare fund royalty and a shorter work day.

Walter T. Gorman, Lumberman, Dies In Ontonagon Office

Ontonagon, Mich., June 8 (AP)—Walter T. Gorman, 62, civic leader and lumberman, died today after suffering a heart attack at his office.

Engaged in the logging and lumbering business here for 15 years, he headed the Gorman Lumber Company. He took an active part in various community activities and especially in the promotion of the Ontonagon Memorial hospital.

Gorman was a native of Wausau, Wis.

Natural Gas Gives Out At Manistee

Manistee, Mich., June 8. (AP)—Manistee's natural gas supply has come to an end, the Consumers Power Co. reported today.

As a result, the company said, a $37,000 pipeline constructed for use this spring is useless and it will be necessary to revise rates to compensate for use of a "more expensive" gas.

Walter A. Scott, division manager, said gas in the main well is trapped in a sand pocket. When gas is drawn off, water and mud block the flow and seal the well, he said.

Quick Confirmation Predicted For New Secretary Of Army

By JACK BELL

Washington, June 8. (AP)—Speedy senate approval of Gordon Gray as secretary of the army was forecast today by Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) of the armed services committee.

President Truman's nomination of Gray—North Carolina lawyer-publisher who has been serving in the department since Sept. 1947—apparently came as a surprise not only to members of congress but to the appointee himself.

Tydings said Gray will appear before the committee tomorrow. Senator Gurney of South Dakota, Republican spokesman on the group, said he was "glad to see that someone with experience was picked for the job."

Previously, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson had thought he had Curtis E. Calder, chairman of Electric Bond & Share Co., lined up for the job. However, Calder seemingly didn't want to take on a Washington assignment, even for his old friend Johnson.

Gray was said to have told senators that he knew nothing of his appointment in advance.

Johnson Slowed Down

It also was something of a happy surprise to some lawmakers who have been saying in the cloakrooms that Johnson was trying to cut too wide a swath too fast in revamping the military establishment he took over from the late James Forrestal.

There seemed no doubt that Gray had Johnson's full endorsement, even though Calder was his first choice.

With Francis P. Matthews installed as secretary of the navy, Johnson has only one top job holdover from the Forrestal regime. He is Secretary of the Air Force W. Stuart Symington.

Symington, a St. Louis radio manufacturer and good friend of President Truman, retains his White House "in" and is regarded as likely to stay on.

And some of Johnson's Capitol Hill friends are known to have counseled recently that it might be a good idea to let things cool off before he makes any other major moves.

The navy's brass still is hot under the collar about the defense secretary's decision to cut their supercarrier off at the keel.

Johnson is said to have been reminded that the navy has a lot of friends in congress.

Moscow Demands Fifty-Fifty Voice In Berlin Control

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

Paris, June 8 (AP)—The foreign ministers conference faced a continued deadlock today, with Russia demanding a voice equal to that of the combined three western powers in the control of Berlin.

This proposal for a fifty-fifty voice — actually one power equalling three—was flatly rejected yesterday by Secretary of State Dean Acheson as a device for imposing the will of one occupying power on the other three.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky had proposed, pending the election of a Berlin city government, that the Soviet commander appoint 50 per cent of the personnel of a German commission to run the city and supervise elections.

Vishinsky said this would be "fair and equiable." Acheson said it would not, on the basis of population or any other standard, reminding that west Berlin had two-thirds of the population. He said also that the Soviet-sponsored SED party had received only 19 per cent of the vote in the 1946 election, and therefore 25 per cent voice for the Russians in the control of Berlin would be generous.

The western ministers urged adoption of the American plan to give Berlin's administration the leeway enjoyed by Vienna where the city administration can do as it pleases unless all four of the occupying powers disapprove.

Vishinsky who spoke two hours against the American proposal, said he wanted to continue his speech today.

The Soviet minister seemed insistent on getting even more controls over local Berlin government and larger veto power within the four-power control organ—Kommandatura — if and when it should be resurrected than Russia had in the first place.

Bus Strike Cuts Off Service For 300,000 In Detroit Suburbs

Detroit, June 8 (AP)—An estimated 300,000 suburban dwellers were without public bus service today because of a strike of drivers protesting a proposed wage cut.

Union employes of the Dearborn Coach Co., serving down-river communities, walked out at midnight last night.

The drivers are affiliated with Local 1265, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators of America (AFL).

Local President Lloyd A. Ferguson said the company has refused the union's request for arbitration of the proposed wage cuts of 8½ to 13½ cents an hour. The company-union contract expired last week.

Truman Pushes Aid For Southern Korea

Testing Ground Combats Influence Of Moscow

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Lawmakers speculated today that President Truman may be giving the best answer he can find right now for the China-Communism problem by urging a $150,000,000 recovery program for Southern Korea.

Mr. Truman told Congress yesterday in a special message asking for approval of the plan:

"Korea has become a testing ground in which the validity and practical value of the ideals and principals of democracy which the Republic is putting into practice are being matched against the practices of Communism which have been imposed upon the people of North Korea."

The president went on to say that survival of this Republic (Southern Korea) "will have an immense and far-reaching influence on the people of Asia."

He said it would "encourage the people of Southern and Southeastern Asia and the islands of the Pacific to resist and reject the Communist propaganda with which they are besieged."

He added that success there would be "a beacon to the people of Northern Asia" already under Communist domination.

Nowhere in his message did Mr. Truman hold out for non-Communist China any hope of the economic aid he was seeking for its neighbor Korea.

Jaycees Cut Loose In Colorado Springs

Resort Town Taken Over By 3000 Youngbloods

By FRANK PITMAN

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 8. (AP)—Heeding the century-old cry of "Pike's Peak or bust", 3,000 Jaycees assembled today at the foot of Colorado's most famous mountain for their 29th annual convention.

The Jaycees, formally known as members of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, rocked this resort town with their gaiety and hi-jinks. But the natives didn't mind. The place belongs to the visitors for the next four days.

An old-style western village—featuring a special room with 200 slot machines—has been constructed on the outskirts of town. There are replicas of old saloons. One of them boasts an honest-to-goodness 110-foot bar with plenty of liquids to keep the wood damp from end to end.

Livery stables, general stores of the crackerbox - philosophy era, a gold-assaying office and a typically western boardwalk have also been set up for the conventioners.

There will be a nights-of-the-old west dance Saturday night at which time most of this mellow equipment is expected to get somewhat more than a mild workout.

These attending the dance are expected to wear western clothing and borrow horses if possible. Hitching posts front all the saloons and the local folks who put up the hitching posts want them used.

Bankruptcy Faces State Next Spring, Says Gov. Williams

Lansing, June 8 (AP)—Governor Williams estimated today the state will plunge heavily into the red in March of next year unless the legislature faces the facts of fiscal life sooner.

Williams hinted strongly that he will not wait until then to call a special session of the legislature to meet the problem.

Using projections made by State Controller Robert F. Steadman, Williams said "a very sharp plunge into the red will occur about March 15. Within six weeks thereafter we shall be about $25,000,000 short and by the end of June the actual cash deficit will total $53,000,000."

The "expected sudden collapse" of the state's finances will result because heavy state school aid payments are due in January, March and May, Williams said.

Old Alpena Farmer Shoots Husband Of His Granddaughter

Alpena, Mich., June 8 (AP)—An 83-year-old farmer shot and seriously wounded his granddaughter's husband near here this morning, State Police reported.

Police of the Alpena post identified the farmer as Julius Kissau, who made his home on a 40-acre farm at Route 2, Alpena, near Hubbard Lake. The victim was Ned Heath husband of Kissau's granddaughter, Ida.

Police said when Heath returned from feeding chickens this morning, Kissau was waiting for him with a double barreled shotgun. Heath was shot in the face, the right side and back before he could wrest the gun away, police said.

Air Crash Victims Hunted In Atlantic; Death Toll Now 54

By JULIO RIVERO

San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 8 (AP)—Searchers used flares this morning to scour murky, shark-ridden waters where a transport plane crashed yesterday. At least 54 of the 81 aboard are believed to have perished.

U. S. B-17 bombers dropped the flares to aid Coast Guard and Navy craft press the pre-dawn search for some 20 persons still missing.

Capt. D. H. Dexter, in charge of the U. S. Coast Guard base here, said he did not believe any more would be found alive. Twenty-five of the 27 saved themselves by swimming to shore.

There were 19 children and six crew members aboard the chartered plane which crash landed in a rainstorm yesterday, after radioing back it had engine trouble. The ship had just set out for the United States.

By last night 27 survivors and 34 bodies had been fished out of the rocky waters where the plane sank. All the passengers were Puerto Ricans.

Jerry Andrews, a Civil aeronautics board inspector, who flew in from Miami yesterday, was at the scene as the search continued. A series of investigations has been launched.

The plane was a former C-46 Army transport, converted for passenger service, and chartered by a travel agency from Strato-Freight Inc. Most of the passengers were bound for Miami, Fla., and Newark, N. J.

The plane fell in deep water just off the coast about four miles from the San Juan airfield.

Ruben Rivera Quiles, 21, a survivor, said the big plane started swaying from side to side as soon as it gained altitude after the take-off.

"It was shocking to see all those mothers crying and yelling as soon as the plane hit the sea," he said.

"The children fell off their laps. They seemed nearly crazy to go out into the sea even though they could not swim."

One survivor said he passed out 17 life preservers but there was no chance to launch life rafts which the plane carried.

Capt. Al Bockrell of Pittsfield, Mass., a crew member, was among those missing and presumed dead. The plane's stewardess, Miss Judith Hale, of Binghamton, N. Y., told rescue workers Cockrell had given her his life jackett in the sea.

One of the first bodies recovered was that of a little girl clutching a doll.

Clergymen Condemn One-man Grand Jury

Governor Urged To Sign New Repealer Bill

Lansing June 8 (AP)—A dozen small-town clergymen, businessmen and farmers pleaded yesterday with Governor Williams to sign a legislative bill abolishing the one-man grand jury system in Michigan.

In addition, the Detroit Chapter of the National Lawyers' Guild filed a statement at a public hearing urging approval of the bill.

Williams is hearing opponents and proponents of the measure while waiting for the bill to come from the printers. Then he has 10 days to decide whether to sign or veto it.

The Rev. John Mellish of Lapeer told Wililams "the Lord himself never left his ministry in the hands of one man. He selected 12 disciples. Leaving judgment on the head of one man is wrong and unchristian."

The Rev. John Safran, Manistique Methodist pastor, submitted petitions signed by 1,444 persons urging Williams to sign the bill. He said other Manistique clergymen agreed with his statements.

Mr. Safran said his followers favored a return to the common-law 23-man grand jury, but that the present bill for a three-judge grand jury was some advance. He asked the governor to appoint a non-partisan study commission to consider the proper type of grand jury system to recommend to the legislature.

He suggested new law fixing a policy of paying informers in line with federal policy and the granting of immunity "in open court rather than in a secret hideout."

Russia Wins Round In Radio Jamming

Stiff Price Paid To Cut Off Voice Of America

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

Washington, June 7 (AP) — Russia apparently has won the first major stage in its "radio war" with the United States and Britain. The Soviets have paid a stiff price for the victory.

State department officials said today Russian jamming is now so intense that American and British official news broadcasts are able to pierce the screen of interference "only in spots."

However, to impose the blackout on the "Voice of America" and the British Broadcasting Corporation programs, the Russians have had to triple the number of stations devoted to the campaign, bringing the total to an estimated 205.

Officials said this has crippled "substantially" Moscow's own domestic programs and has reduced the floor of Soviet propaganda to foreign listeners.

Also, by shifting "Voice" and BBC radio channels in close to Soviet broadcast frequencies, the western nations have, in effect, forced the Russians to jam some of their own programs.

Both the state department and the BBC are trying out new tricks in the conflict, which is without peacetime precedent. Officials predicted that ultimately more powerful equipment and new techniques will defeat the effort to keep the Russian people from listening to broadcasts not made in Moscow.

Vice Squad Stops Church Raffle At Home Of Bob Hope

Los Angeles, June 8 (AP)—Vice squad members visited the home of Comedian Bob Hope and stopped a church benefit raffle.

Sgt. David McCoy said no arrests were made last Sunday because Mrs. Hope said she didn't know that a raffle for such purposes was illegal.

Several paddlewheels were confiscated by the officers, Mrs. Hope said. The affair attended by more than 1200 persons, was a benefit for a convent in nearby Alhambra.

Sweeping Inquiry Of B-36 Bombers Requested in House

Washington June 8 (AP) — The House today was asked to authorize a sweeping investigation of the B-36 bomber and national air power policies in general.

The request was made in a resolution by Rep. Vinson (D-Ga) to set up a special staff for the project. A quick okay was predicted.

The demand for an investigation grew out of the months-long feud between the air force and the navy over strategic air power assignments.

The air force has contended its B-36 is virtually invincible and can handle the longest of missions. The navy on the other hand says it has jet fighters that can whip the B-36. It also claims that aircraft carriers are still vital to modern warfare, and should not be discarded.

Negro Patient Held For Killing Civilian Ft. Custer Employe

Battle Creek, Mich., June 8 (AP)—Battle Creek police said today a 17-year-old medical patient at Percy Jones General hospital has admitted beating a Ft. Custer civilian employe whose body was found Saturday in the Kalamazoo river.

Detectives Kenneth Hynes and Ross Repper said Pfc. Roy Jones, Negro patient at the hospital, signed a statement that he fought with Robert O. Banker, 46, and left him lying on the river edge.

Banker's body, beaten and drowned, was discovered in the water Saturday and Jones was arrested Sunday.

SURVIVOR—Among the injured survivors when a twin-engined airliner with 81 persons on board crashed off Puerto Rico was stewardess Judy Hale (above), 24, of Binghampton, N. Y. Babich Murder Case Opens In Milwaukee

Shooting Of Girl Was An Accident, Youth Claims

Milwaukee, June 8. (AP)—After several delays, the trial of Milton Babich, 19, on a charge of slaying his bride's young sister was scheduled to start today.

Babich, who has admitted fatally shooting Patricia Birmingham, 16-year-old high school junior, has pleaded innocent to a charge of first degree murder.

He said he shot Patricia accidentally Feb. 9 while attempting to scare her into remaining silent that her sister, Kathleen, then 17, was pregnant.

Later Milton and Kathleen eloped to Kalamazoo, Mich. While they were on their honeymoon firemen dragging the Milwaukee river for the body of a suicide found Patricia's body. There were two bullet holes in her head and her feet were wired to a concrete block.

After Babich and his bride were brought back to Milwaukee from Minneapolis, Dist. Atty. William McCauley announced Babich made a statement detailing the shooting and declaring it accidental.

Babich has been confined to the county jail since his return from his honeymoon late in March. Legal maneuvers began shortly after McCauley's announcement, delaying the start of the trial several times.

Low Water Level Cuts Ore Tonnage From Great Lakes

Cleveland, June 8 (AP) — Low lake levels are expected to result in decreased iron ore shipments from the upper Great Lakes this month as compared with June, 1948.

The maximum draft for down-bound vessels has declined to 23.4 feet as compared with 24.6 draft a year ago.

The Lake Superior Iron Ore association today reported shipments totaled 2,724,669 tons for the week ended June 6. This compares with 2,766,566 in the same week last year.

Shipments up to June 1 of this year came to 21,023,247 tons, the association said. This was 313 800 tons under the all time record set in 1942 for the season to June 1.

Despite an earlier opening of the shipping season this year than in 1942, only 266 vessels are operating this year compared with 306 in 1942.

California Slaying Victim Was Tipsy, Pathologist Finds

Riverside, Calif., June 8 (AP) — Wealthy John E. Owen was "under the influence of alcohol" the night he was killed, a pathologist testified at the trial of Mrs. Agnes Garnier, charged with murdering her boss.

Dr. Cecil F. Baisinger, who performed an autopsy on the body the day after the shooting April 22, so told the court yesterday.

The name of Actress Irene Rich did not come up in the opening day's testimony. Earlier, Mrs Garnier, 53, who managed Owen's apartment properties in Los Angeles told police the shooting stemmed from an argument over a set of cocktail glasses Miss Rich had given Owen, 68.

Big Four Discord May Spur Arms-For-Europe Program

Atlantic Pact Put At Top Of Roster For Senate Action

Outlay Of $1,130,000,000 May Have Opposition

By DON WHITEHEAD

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Senator Connally (D-Tex) said today a breakdown in the foreign ministers conference at Paris could speed action on the administration's $1,130,000,000 arms-for-Europe program.

Democratic leaders have set aside the rearmament plan at least until the North Atlantic treaty has been ratified by the Senate. One senator said privately that President Truman is in "complete agreement" with that schedule.

Mr. Truman was said to be in no rush to send the arms program to congress ahead of treaty ratification and action on important domesic legislation. The treaty must be approved by a two-thirds vote of the Senate to become binding.

Senators Not Bound

But Connally, who is chairman of the Foreign Relations committee, said failure of the American-British-Russian-French meeting at Paris could change the entire situation. The underlying purpose of the meeting is to find a way for Russia and the other powers to get along together for the benefit of Europe and world peace.

"If Secretary of State Acheson should return and recommend quick action," Connally told a reporter, "it might bring the arms plan up sooner.'

The committee's report urging ratification of the treaty made it clear that a vote for the treaty will not bind any senator to vote for the arms plan.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he agreed with the committee on this viewpoint.

"I think I'll vote for the treaty," he told a reporter, "but I am opposed to the arms program."

The Ohioan said he might support some reservations to the

Housing Bill Held Up In Committee; Democrats Hopeful

Washington, June 8. (AP)—Handed a new rebuff from the house rules committee, Democratic leaders remained hopeful today of passing the multi - billion dollar housing bill—one of President Truman's major campaign promises.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) told newsmen: "I think we'll pass a housing bill when the time comes to pass it."

But a bitter and uncertain battle loomed as the rules committee—under control of a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats—flatly refused to clear the measure for immediate house action.

That caused the Democratic leaders to call off a mass meeting of the party's 261 house members late yesterday. The caucus had been set in an effort to soften some of the housing bill opposition in party ranks.

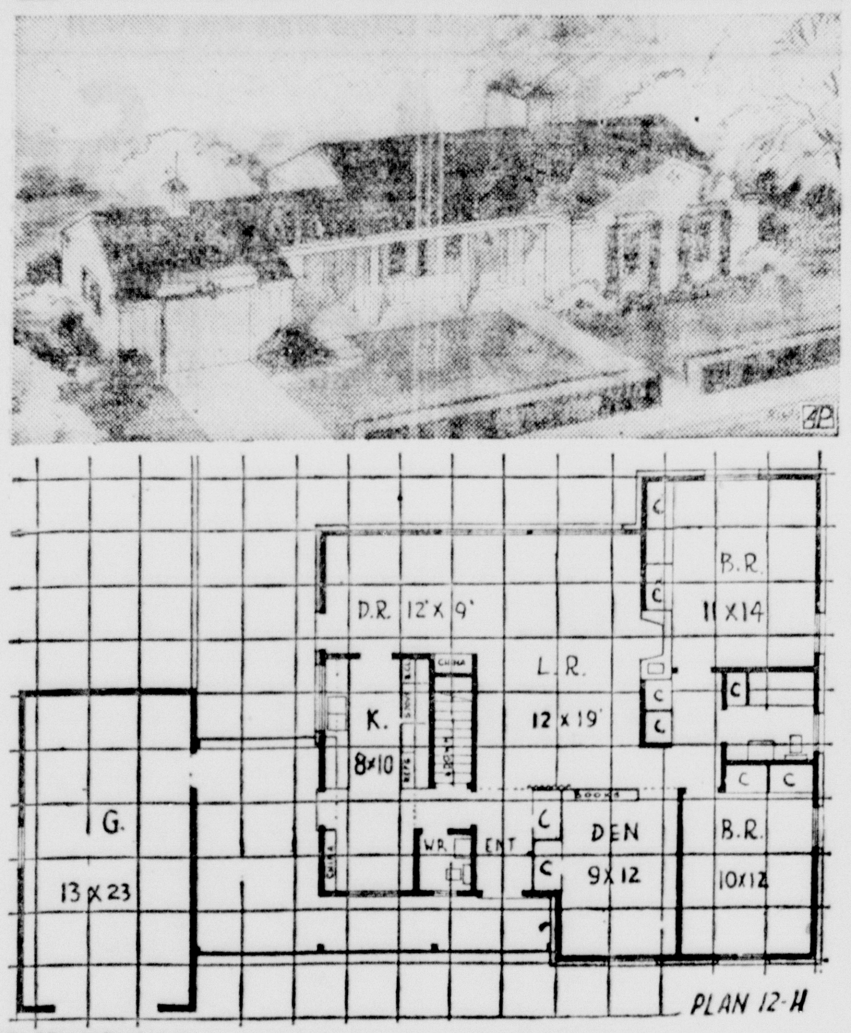
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



AP Newsfeatures

Pollman of the Homograf Corp. 11711 East Eight Mile Road, East Detroit, Mich. The house covers 1,286 square feet and contains 21,021 cubic feet with basement. Breezeway and garage are planned so they can be added later.

ROCK RECEIVES SCHOOL MONEY

Ewing And Maple Ridge Twsps. Give $13,000

Rock, Mich., (Special)—Maple Ridge township school board this week received a check of $10,000 from Maple Ridge township, in a fund transfer authorized last fall by voters of the township, to help finance the construction of a 160 by 84 foot new school building. The school board also has received a check of $3,000 from Ewing township, included in the Maple Ridge school district, for the same purpose.

Work on the school, to provide a gymnasium, stage with combination hot lunch rooms and kitchen, shop, kindergarten rooms, science laboratory and classroom and office with vault, was begun May 23. Herman Johnson is construction foreman.

Plans for the brick veneer and cincrete building were drawn by the firm of Foeller, Schober, Berners, Safford and Johns, architects of Green Bay, Wis.

Funds for the building are being obtained, first, through a bond issue voted last fall, through savings accrued by the board of education, funds transferred by townships, and donations totaling $2,500 from alumni and students.

Much labor is being donated to help build the school. This week a carload of structural steel arrived for the school, and within two hours 25 volunteers had unloaded it. The Rock Co-op, Larson Brothers, Herbert Westlund, Emil DeBacker and Walter Manntie have donated a truck and gas; Albert Westlund, Dona LeClaire, and William Tulla have donated trucks; and Frank Campbell, Martin Falck and Torval Hanson are furnishing gas.

George Weingartner, superintendent, said today that the building is expected to be completed in time for the basketball season.

The gymnasium is 75 by 90 feet, and replaces the old gymnasium which was destroyed by fire about a year ago.

The date at which gunpowder was first used in artillery in battle is uncertain, but is believed to be 1331.

FREE SAID HE WOULDN'T DIE

But "Immortal" Fanatic Departed In 1906

By ROBERT C. RUARK

Ruark

Columbus, O.—Every time the indispensable boys in Washington start to sound off in voice of doom, I get to thinking about the immortal J. N. Free. The immortal J. N. Free said he would never die. The mortal remains of the immortal J. N. rest in the McCutchenville cemetery, north of Upper Sandusky. They have been resting there since 1906.

The immortal J. N. was a little crazy, some say, but that would be hard to prove. He just wanted everything free, like his surname, and if people didn't give him everything he clouded up all over. He said he would "turn the pressure on them."

There is no single instance of his ever being forced to turn on the pressure. All he did was threaten. Nor did he ever "lift the veil," another superhuman feat he was always threatening. Mr. Ben Hayes says that the immortal J. N. would storm into a schoolroom, walk up to the blackboard and write "I will lift the veil at town hall tonight at 8 o'clock—The Immortal J. N. Free."

By the time the crowd had gathered to peer into the beyond, the immortal J. N. was in another county.

Wrote Own Passes

Wearing his white hair long, to match his frock coat of black broadcloth, the immortal J. N. traveled all over the country. He traveled free on the trains, using passes which he sometimes wrote himself.

Railroad presidents were eager to give passes to the immortal J. N. Mr. Hayes says the president of the Pennsylvania railroad wanted to write him a lifetime pass, but J. N. refused. He said that since he was immortal it wouldn't be valid. Whereupon the Pennsy's man wrote him a pass labeled "good until doomsday." He carried still another pass that was good "until hell freezes over."

The immortal J. N. refused to stoop to the sordid levels of commerce. He said the best thing in the world was air, and air was free. If air was free, all other inferior commodities should be free.

He stayed in the best hotels, and never paid a nickel.

You may have the impression that the immortal J. N. was selfish. That is not so. Once he told every little girl in New Lexington, O., that if they would meet him Thursday he would buy them all new dresses. Then Thursday came, the bargain slipped his mind, and he was not to be found, a fact that never seemed to mar his generosity of intent.

Lived Until 77

The immortal J. N.'s control over people was highly similar to that of our modern governing practices. He promised to reveal all—and never did. He backed his demands with threats—but never fulfilled them. Still and all, he was able to ride the free horse until his immortality ended at the age of 77.

Immortal J. N. came of excellent family. Some say he was a brilliant lawyer whose mind had slipped its ratchet under the stress of a long murder trial. The other version is that he was a big dealer in horses and blew his top after a wrangle with the government over a transaction about Civil War mules.

Neither explanation is necessary. Delusions of mightiness are easy to come by, and need little care or feeding. The immortal J. N. found soon that an intimation of immortality, for practical purposes, is nearly as good as the real thing, and that neither threats nor promises need be executed for general effectiveness.

Mr. Truman, as I recall, was elected on a similar program, and since has administered his office along the same lines. Mr. Roosevelt's long tenure was in many ways a duplicate of the immortal J. N.'s credo. The military, labor and the atom boys all have plucked leaves from the book of the immortal J. N. Free.

It might be well to reflect, however, that despite the immortal J. N.'s protestations of permanency, his grave may be visited in the McCutchenville cemetery—which is, as I said before, just a little north of Upper Sendusky.

Beach Problem Bobs Up Again

IN the Public Forum column on this page there is a letter from an Escanaba resident dealing with the subject of the city beach project. The letter is somewhat longer than normally accepted for the forum column (250 word limit) but we have made an exception in this instance because the subject is one of considerable local interest.

The writer asks, "Who knows how many such (dangerous) holes exist in this summer playground for our children?" The truth is that this is not a summer playground for children, at least not presently. When it is established as a summer playground, the public can be assured that there will be no death traps in the established bathing area. Every foot of the area will be carefully and completely examined before the beach is open for public use, and if any holes exist, they will be eliminated.

The subject of a city beach has been battered around for years. The city recreation board spent almost a full year studying every phase of the problem and discussing it with local residents. Expressions of opinion were sought from anyone who cared to present an opinion.

Actually, a majority of the recreation board favored a site for the new beach that would follow the natural shoreline at Ludington Park. A careful study of the problem revealed, however, that it is impossible to locate the beach there because of the extensive dredging that has been done in that area.

The next problem that had to be decided was whether to develop the temporary beach at the north side of Sand Point into a permanent beach or whether to locate the permanent municipal beach on the island off Ludington Park. The latter site was ultimately chosen for a multitude of reasons.

Popular sentiment for Ludington Park as a bathing beach site rather than Sand Point was overwhelming. It was felt that it is better to concentrate recreational activities at Ludington Park, both for public convenience and for improved supervision. Further, it was generally agreed that Ludington Park offers more scenic beauty than does Sand Point.

As for the contention that the new beach is off the beaten path and that many children will have to walk there, there is no argument. Many children would have to walk to any beach that the city might develop. After all, the waterfront represents one of the boundaries of Escanaba. Unfortunately, the bay is not situated so that it provides walking convenience for a majority of our residents.

The same can be said of the argument that the water is often too cold. Unfortunately, no mortal has any control over that factor and we can only accept whatever water temperature the Good Lord provides. For most of the summer season, the water temperature is quite satisfactory.

The argument that the roughness of the water increases the difficulty in teaching children to swim, is, of course, entirely valid. It is in recognition of that fact that the recreation board has recommended the installation of an outdoor pool on the island. Plans for this facility are being prepared and cost estimates are being made. It appears from tentative reports that the cost of this installation will be well within the city's financial means.

The outdoor pool would provide a sheltered area where swimming classes could be conducted in safety and with efficiency. It could also be utilized for general controlled swimming activities.

The beach site in its present condition is not a safe place for children or, for that matter, for adults. It is imperative that bathing be confined to the temporary beach until the new beach is ready — and then only when the beach is supervised.

Contempt Fines Upheld By Court

THE U. S. circuit court of appeals has upheld the contempt of court citation against John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers and ordered the UMW boss and the union to pay fines of $1,420,000. Presumably the union and its president will carry an appeal to the U. S. supreme court, as they did in a previous contempt of court judgment.

The contempt citation was made by Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough in April, 1948, when Lewis and the union ignored a court injunction to halt the strike over miners' pensions. Judge Goldsborough fined the union $1,400,000 and John L. Lewis $20,000. In each instance, the fines were exactly double previous fines assessed by the U. S. supreme court against the union and Lewis for a similar conviction of contempt. The miners returned to work on the orders of Lewis after the fines were imposed by Judge Goldsborough.

It is unlikely that the supreme court will reverse the findings of the appeal court in this instance, although the court may, as it did once before, reduce the amount of the fines.

The appeals court pointed uot that it was unconcerned with an interpretation of the miners' contract with the coal operators or with the Taft-Hartley act. The only issue before the court, the judges ruled, was whether people must obey a temporary order issued by a court which seeks to maintain conditions until it can determine its authority in the dispute. The appeals judges ruled, logically enough, that such temporary orders issued by a court must be obeyed.

The action of Judge Goldsborough in assessing the fines and the action of the court of appeals in upholding the contempt citation should provide proof, sufficient even for Lewis, that no man is bigger than the United States government.

"Not With My Pen, But With My Heart"

A 13-year-old Japanese girl who lost her right hand from an incendiary bomb, penned the letter below in a Tokyo girls' high school project to seek pen friends in Australia. The latter land bars from its territory all persons of the so-called yellow and brown races. Wrote the Japanese school girl:

To Some School Girl In Australia:

You may not like receiving this letter, or answering it, because I am Japanese.

But I hope it is not so. I am not your enemy. It may help a little if I tell you that I too have suffered. My three brothers, they are in their last sleep, and my home, it is burned.

Out of all this cruelty and hatred and mistake, can we not arrange that there shall be peace and happiness and prosperity for all countries? I want it that way.

Even in a war-scarred land like mine, spring will come. It is coming now, with plum-blossoms and cherry-blossoms, and gladness and warmth. How can we arrange so that it may be spring for all the world?

I beg you to believe that I write this letter not with my pen, but with my heart.—Hideke Inourie.

RADISHES

We would not go so far as to prohibit by law the raising of radishes. Neither would we necessarily put them on a supervised basis and use public tax monies to peg them at 75 per cent of parity. But an honest, impersonal survey of the situation on a nationwide basis is proof that something ought to be done. Radishes are leading neophyte gardeners along primrose paths to destruction and promulgating great economic loss among the experienced.

Technically a radish is a member of the mustard family; it is commonly eaten raw as a relish. The pungent, crisp, chewey flesh of Raphanous sativus is enjoyed by a distinguished minority who dip it in salt or soak it in vinegar. Men whose wives are solidly sold on mixed green salads are obliged to fork their silage over and push the white and red slices of radish to one side. How far things have gone in this nation since the days when men foddered on meat and potatoes is seen in the fact that a great chain store has announced that radishes stood 11th in tonnage of vegetables handled. In the interest of objective reporting it must be mentioned that in the Far East the radish is important as a food. Koreans especially like them. Some of their radish varieties weigh 15 or more pounds.

There's nothing the least bit inhibited about Raphanous. Anyone can scratch a little furrow in his garden, shake in the smill, firm round seeds and be certain of a crop. This raises false hopes as to the simplicity of gardening. Radishes come up in a few days; their leaves are strong and leathery; they grow rapidly. The less valuable a crop, apparently, the fewer enemies it has. Cut worms, aphids and beetles have sufficient discrimination to avoid radishes. There are, admittedly, a few plus marks for the red bulbs. They are pretty to look at; the unspoiled foliage gives one courage to believe that this year the bugs will not be such a pest. But according to latest reports there aren't many vitamins in them and they don't add proteins, carbohydrates and fat to the calory count. However, it all promotes business. A man has learned not to fight the inevitable. He plants 1,742 seeds in a 30 foot row. The family uses 39 of them before they grow bitter and pulpy. —By Haydn Pearson.

AGGRAVATE - EXASPERATE

Q. Somehow I have not succeeded in convincing my English class that the word aggravate does not mean "exasperate" or "irritate." Please give us one of your so-easy-to-understand explanations, won't you—M. R.

A. Let us start with the origin of aggravate. It stems in the Latin aggravo, "to make heavier; to make worse; to heighten." Aggravate, then, means literally, "to make worse or more severe; to intensify any evil; disorderly, or troublesome."

Now in informal use, such as conversation, personal letter writing, sports writing, and colloquial speech, aggravate is widely used in the meaning of "exasperate, annoy, irritate," and the newer dictionaries list the usage as colloquial.

But I should avoid it in serious speech or writing, for it is not yet admitted to good literary usage.

Colloquial: "His constant whistling aggravates me." Improved: His constant whistling irritates (exasperates, annoys) me.

Colloquial: "Her insolence resulted in my aggravation." Improved: Her insolence resulted in my disapproval.

Colloquial: "I am very aggravated." Improved: I am very much annoyed (irritated, exasperated).

Colloquial: "His impertinence increased my aggravation." This is actually redundant, since "increase" and "aggravate" are highly synonymous. Better say: His impertinence increased (or aggravated) my annoyance.

Correct: The noise aggravates (increases) my nervousness. He aggravated his illness by refusing to follow the doctor's instructions. The bad state of affairs in Europe is aggravated by Soviet propaganda.

* * *

Note: In the legal term "aggravated assault," the meaning is not "an assault resulting from exasporation at being tounted or challenged."

An aggravated assault is one that is more serious than a simple assault; that is to say, an assault that is aggravated (made more serious or heinous) by intent to inflict bodily harm, to maim, or to cause death.

Striking a person with one's fist is usually considered a simple assault. Use of any weapon that might cause injury or death constitutes an aggravated assault.

AEC's Security Well-Fortified

BY PETER EDSON

Washington, (NEA)—It is charged that under the chairmanship of David E. Lilienthal one-eighth of an ounce of uranium oxide has been lost. This brings up the matter of how AEC is organized to protect its valuable fissionable materials.

Uranium oxide is a salt—a powder. The particular bit of uranium oxide that is lost was in a bottle at Argonne Laboratories, University of Chicago. The bottle is also missing, although most of the uranium oxide it had in it has now been recovered by analyses and reprocessing of waste at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

How much uranium oxide was in the bottle originally, the Atomic Energy Commission refuses to say. Chairman Brien McMahon's joint congressional committee on atomic energy may want to bring this out in its current investigation of Lilienthal's management. Pending that disclosure, the commission feels it should not talk about it. Iowa Republican Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper, former chairman of the joint committee, has said there were nine or 10 ounces.

How this particular bit of lost uranium oxide got into the bottle is rather interesting. A bar of uranium metal was being turned in a lathe for special use. The turnings—the curls of waste metal, if you please—were all carefully saved.

But pure uranium metal is very active, chemically. To save the uranium content, these fragile scrap turnings were "burned," or oxidized. Uranium oxide is a more stable chemical compound.

THE "WASTE" TURNS UP

The uranium oxide was carefully accounted for. That is why it was missed. All waste materials at AEC plants are carefully analyzed, however, for just such possible loss. When the Argonne wastes were analyzed at Oak Ridge, the uranium oxide was of such character and concentration that it was easily identifiable as having come from the bottle of uranium oxide made from the lathe turnings.

That is how the loss was traced and that is how detailed and accurate is the accounting system for fissionable materials set up by the atomic energy commission under Chairman David E. Lilienthal. It beats even the precautions at the U. S. mints, where smoke is filtered and dust swept up to recover every grain of gold and silver.

AEC begins with hundreds of tons of ores from mines in the U. S., Canada and the Belgian Congo. It ends up by accounting for microscopic amounts of metal. Manhattan project had no such detailed accountability system. It was interested only in producing a bomb. AEC now has a uniform system of accounting for uranium and plutonium.

The ore is first crushed and graded into what is known as feed material. Here it is first assayed for uranium content. That is all the government buys and that it all it accounts for.

Second step is to produce "brown salt," uranium tetrafluoride. Next step, uranium hexafluoride, a gas, for use at Oak Ridge.

At Hanford the feed material is converted into extremely pure uranium billets. The billets are then made into rods for use in the reactors or piles. Part of the uranium is here converted into plutonium, which is then separated from the uranium.

CHECK, CHECK, CHECK

Both plutonium and uranium hexafluoride are extremely poisonous. So there is extra reason for accountability on every particle, as a safety measure. At every step, wastes are recovered and reprocessed where possible. This means accounting for the salvage of sludges, fluids, concentrates, dusts, dross, slags and sweepings.

The bookkeeping system would drive the average CPA nuts. Every AEC installation has to report every month. Shipments from one plant to another—made under armed guard—must check. Teams of inspectors go out regularly to check accounts.

Some of the material goes to weapons and some to research. At every stage of research, the uranium or plutonium content may change form. That makes accountability all the more difficult. There is never 100 per cent accountability in any manufacturing process because there are process losses in every chemical change. But so carefully are these processes controlled that process losses must be measured and accounted for as such.

All these checks are necessary to make sure that the AEC security force of 1800 officers is doing its job. Talk about Russia and its iron curtain. The very whereabouts of some of the 1270 AEC installations has never been announced.

The number of classified, secret documents AEC guards is around 450,000. About 10,000 new documents are classified every month.

Guards patrol many miles of chain link fence, set in concrete and topped with barbed wire. They are assisted by automatic alarms using infra-red, photo-electric, temperature, proximity and sonic detectors. They have tamper-proof identification system, stand-by communications system and they undergo rigorous training. From the army they have obtained armored vehicles and special weapons. At the most sensitive production points, they have anti-sabotage protection.

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

THE BIG BLUFF—Nature has provided most of her creatures with some form of protection—either sharp claws and strong teeth, long legs and the ability to run away, or an offensive odor that can be released at a time of danger.

Dunathan

Sometimes nature gives some of her harmless creatures the sound and fury usually associated with more dangerous creatures. Thus it is with the rabbit, whose thumping hind feet can make a sound as loud as those of a big animal; and the harmless pine snake, that can vibrate its tail in dry grass and leaves to imitate the sound of the rattle snake.

Along the Big Bay de Noc shore over the weekend we encountered a pine snake about four feet long. It was surprised and so were we. It sought to escape and we followed it. As soon as it saw that it had been observed it put on effective show of aggressiveness, rattling its tail against sticks and leaves, coiling a part of its upper body, raising its head and darting its forked tongue.

* * *

HARMLESS—When we stood quiet for a moment it slithered quickly away, its yellowish and brown body blending with the ground cover. The ferocious aspect was most impressive, however, and strangers to the out-of-doors might well have thought they had encountered a rattle snake.

Most of the animals to be occasionally found in the woods also have their protective equipment—some not so harmless as the pine snake. The skunk will threaten with tail raised when cornered. And he may spray if you get too close. Few wild creatures attack without warning.

* * *

IN HIDING—The ability of a wild creature to escape harm by remaining hidden is well known. Perhaps the best camouflage is found among the birds. The shrike will stand motionless among the shore reeds, head raised and beak pointed toward the sky, appearing for all the world to be nothing more than another reed or a stick. Its dead-brown color blends with the scene and the bird is discovered only when it rises with a starting cry and a heavy flapping of wings.

Not to be out-done in the matter of camouflage is the rabbit, whose color changes from brownish-gray to white and back to brownish-gray again. The white color affords some measure of protection when the ground is covered with snow.

* * *

NOT SO BATTY—Some people fear the bat as they would the plague. It's name has also become synonymous with erratic or "batty" behavior.

But the bat is not so batty. It seldom reveals itself in daytime, but comes out of hiding in the evening and during the night when it feeds on flying insects. During the day they hang head downward, clinging by their five-toed spidery little rear feet and by their tail. They are like mice with leathery wings and the body is covered with mousy fur.

We observed one over the weekend that the children had discovered in the low branches of a tree. It appeared dazed by sunlight but would rest placidly, head downward, eyes closed, when it could hook its hind feet into the cloth of a shirt.

Placed on the picnic table it struggled to the edge and flew into a cedar tree. There it resembled a brown leaf caught in the green branches and was scarcely noticeable.

* * *

IN THE GROUND—One of the most effectively hidden of nature's creatures is an insect we know only as the ant-bear. In sandy ground it makes a circular cone-shaped hole by kicking the sand grains out with its feet. Sometimes these circular depressions are an inch deep and a couple inches across. The ant-bear, grayish in color, lies in wait at the bottom of the cone, buried and completely hidden. Should an ant or other little insect slide down to the bottom of the sand trap he is seized and devoured by the ant-bear.

* * *

AND THE WATER—Nature has provided protective coloring for even the fishes that dwell in the water. The glancing colors of light and shadow in shallower water are found on the trout, while the pike is greenish brown as camouflage for it among the weedy shores and in the darkness of deeper water.

Only on their undersides are the light colors—white, cream and yellow—that attract attention in the water. Unless the fish is hooked or injured or is observed in turning on its side, the light colors never show except from below.

Only man, with his bright colors and neon signs, and some of the sky-free birds, seeks to attract attention to themselves.

Unsafe Beach

Dear Editor:

As I stood watching the efforts to recover the body of young Howard Wiles from the bay last Sunday afternoon, I could not help wondering how many more youngsters may lose their lives by drowning on this "man-handled" beach in the future.

The people standing around were talking, as people do on such occasions, and from opinions expressed the concensus was beyond any doubt that the newly developed beach is not a safe place. If we grant that the boys should not have been in swimming Sunday afternoon, when there was no beach supervision we still have the fact that there was a hole 30 ft. across (according to the Press), with a sudden dropoff from 3½ ft. of water to a depth of 9 ft., which was about one block out from the shore. Apparently the sand-sucker had been at work there.

After several years of "developing" the beach with the aid of this device and the expenditure of large sums of money, what do we have? Who knows how many such holes exist in this summer playground for our children?

I am voicing the opinion of innumerable parents when I say: We do not like and never have approved of this new beach. It does not seem to have one redeeming feature. It is too far off the beaten track, so that in times of danger any possibility of assistance is out of the question. It is too far for the children to travel to. Many of them have to walk. It is exposed to the full roll of the waves, and as a result the water is often cold. The roughness of the water makes it practically impossible for the younger children to learn to swim. It lacks the protection of the natural contour of a God made beach. The sandsucker has filled it with death traps.

I find it hard to restrain the language I would like to use in connection with this subject. This beach is being built for our children, with our money, and what do we have to say about it? I would like to see a referendum vote taken to disclose how the people feel about the beach being built for their children with their money before there is any more "developing" or any more money spent on this particular phase of our recreation program.

Let's hear some more expressions of opinion in the Public Forum on this subject.

Crazy Drivers

Dear Editor:

As a newcomer here I am surprised to see the large number of careless drivers we have in Escanaba. Many motorists don't seem to pay any attention to stop signs. They pass other cars on Ludington street without regard to the rights of approaching automobiles in the other traffic lane. It appears to me it is much safer to drive in Chicago and other big cities, where crazy driving is not tolerated.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—Liberal Democrats are doing some frantic missionary work on Illinois' strong-willed Senator Paul Douglas to steer him away from his right-wing drift.

When Douglas ran for the senate last fall the charge of pink and left-wing radical was constantly hurled at him by the Chicago Tribune. Friends of Douglas knew this was anything but true. But they did not know that once elected to the senate he would veer so sharply to the right. Now some of the senators who were elected in the same senatorial turnover last November fear their colleague is actually edging over to the Republicans.

What really worries the Democrats is that Douglas has been conferring privately with Republicans on the Taft-Hartley law. He also favors more compromises than the administration approves, won't accept a flat 75-cent minimum wage, and is even more vigorous than Republicans in advocating economy.

One liberal senator, listening to Douglas preach economy on the senate floor, shook his head sadly.

"Douglas came into congress as a great liberal," the senator flung over his shoulder, "but he'll end up as a great conservative."

Other liberal senators who rode the Democratic tide into the senate with Douglas last November—such as Humphrey of Minnesota, Anderson of New Mexico, Kefauver of Tennessee—have tried backing Douglas into a corner and giving him a friendly pep talk.

But one senator complained: "It's no use. He just gets his back up and bristles."

Another liberal colleague tried to explain Douglas's behavior: "He's just knocking a few balls out into right field to prove that he's not a radical and a Communist."

DOUGLAS IS AMUSED

Douglas, himself, chuckled the other day at his colleagues' concern.

"Liberals sniff each other just as dogs do," he twinkled. "Don't worry. I'm still a liberal."

Then with a grave frown, he added: "There's a danger of liberals and conservatives becoming stereotyped."

Explaining his stand on economy, Douglas declared: "I believe in spending less, but I believe in spending it humanely. Some want to economize by eliminating social welfare. I want to economize on other things to make more money available for social welfare."

Instead of the flat 75-cent minimum wage called for by President Truman, Douglas wants a 75-cent minimum wage with an escalator clause, permitting it to go up or down depending upon business conditions.

Some of Douglas's worst critics are government economists. Though Douglas was an economics professor at the University of Chicago, government experts claim his economics aren't sound.

In reply, Douglas snorts: "It's guilt by association in reverse."

Note—Douglas has proved his ability as both a man of letters and a man of action. Though an over-age professor, he enlisted in the marines as a private during the last war, worked up to the rank of lieutenant colonel. Twice wounded in action, he was awarded the bronze star for heroism.

HOUSING HULLABALOO

Bickering over the public housing bill was so heated in the house rules committee the other day that New York's stately G. O. P. Congressman Jim Wadsworth grabbed his hat and threatened to walk out.

Though the housing bill has passed the senate and was recommended by the banking and currency committee, it was long stymied inside the rules committee.

Firemorks started when Rep. Ralph Church, Illinois Republican, charged that the people chiefly benefitting from the housing bill were "too lazy" to look for homes.

"These are the type of people who always are depending on the government to help them," snorted Church. "They never do for themselves."

This brought a hearty "Amen" from another Republican, Rep. Donald Nicholson of Massachusetts.

"The poor," he said, "we will always have with us. They had them in Jesus' time, before and since that time." He added that he opposed the "handout" philosophy of the housing bill.

"Well, Jesus believed in charity and urged aid to the poor, didn't He?" snapped Chairman Adolph Sabath of Illinois, Democrat.

"I'd like to invite these gentlemen to come to my district, where they would see thousands of homeless people who are not poor and not lazy," angrily broke in Indiana's two-fisted Congressman Ray Madden, another Democrat.

"Workers in the mills in Gary and other plants are forced to live in trailer camps, where there are as many as 700 families bunched together. These people are crying for homes of their own and they could afford to pay seven or eight thousand dollars. But they can't afford to pay the $20,000 and $30,000 being charged for homes by the big real estate boys."

"I don't think Congressman Church would be interested in coming down to your district," needled Sabath. "He represents a silk-stocking district north of Chicago where they don't have any housing worries to speak of."

At this point Jim Wadsworth grabbed his hat, with the gruff comment: "This discussion is getting too personal for me." Finally placated by colleagues, however, he agreed to remain.

FISH INDUSTRY HAS PROMISE

Babson Claims Business Still In Infancy

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Miss., — When asked as to what industries may have the best long-term future, I always include the commercial fishing industry. This, I know something about, having been born in Gloucester, Massachusetts, the largest fishing port in the United States and having spent all my summers there ever since.

Due to rains and winds, our soils and their products of grains, vegetables, and livestock are constantly getting reduced in food values. Every day the equivalent of 200 forty-acre farms, groves or ranches are washed down rivers into the sea. This further includes much of the millions of bags of fertilizer which have been put on our soils, and the human waste and garbage, from city sewers.

Hence, the ocean products of fish, lobsters and other sea foods are constantly getting richer, while the prducts of the farms are constantly getting poorer. The time is coming when your descendants must regularly depend upon fish or synthetic foods for proteins and minerals. The fishing industry is the hope of mankind.

Regulation Of Fisheries

The first duty of the United Nations is to control the oceans. This is something which no one nation can do of itself. This could be done largely by regulating trawling and the mesh of all nets used. When the fish need more protection, the United Nations will need only to compel the use of nets with larger meshes, and vice versa.

A female cod fish lays from 1,000,000 to 6,000,000 eggs per year, but owing to "cannibal" fish, careless trawling and the discarding of "baby fish," only a few hundred of these millions of offspring survive. Our commercial fisheries have far greater possibilities than our commercial farms, yet the government is spending only one dollar to protect our fisheries for each one hundred dollars to help agriculture.

Today, most of the fish is brought into th wharves and handled in a most careless manner. Much fish is cut up or filleted by human hands in unsanitary buildings, and sent to freezers. When you buy frozen fish at the stores, it is just as good as when it was frozen, but it is not better. Neither freezing fish, nor canning fish, makes old fish fresh, nor dirty fish safe. Housewives should therefore look at the brand as a guaranty of its quality and how it has been handled. Wonderful filleting machines are now available, which increase the sanitary and health features of frozen and canned fish.

In the years ahead the quality of fish will be further improved by the use of this and other machines on the boats. Then canned and frozen fish will be much fresher than "whole fish." Furthermore, we will some day sterilize fish by electrical treatment and deliver it to you perfectly fresh in cellophane bags. This may take the place of canning and freezing.

Earnings Of Fishermen

Not only has the fishing industry very great opportunities for growth, but even now it is profitable for those who catch and process the best quality of fish. The men who man the vessels now average about $3,500 per year, although many of them are foreigners who cannot read and write. Those who process the fish on shore can earn fifty dollars or more per week by piecework. Fish salesmen can earn from $5,000 to $12,000 per year.

The entire industry is now in its infancy, without regulation or modern machinery. It is the only important industry which offers no training schools. No colleges have courses on fishing and fisheries. We know very little about fish except their wonderful nutritional qualities. In fact, certain brands of machine-filleted, frozen or canned fish should be sold in drug stores! Such will do you more good than most medicines at a quarter of the cost! Certainly the fishing industry has a good future, for those who will seek quality and deal fairly.

America Remembers French Town, St. Lo

By Hal Boyle

Boyle

St. Lo, France, (AP)—Here in this town five years ago we Americans and our allies killed many friends while trying to dislodge the enemy. Yet we still have many friends here, although our bombs destroyed their homes and many of their relatives.

It is a strange punishment in wartime that it is sometimes necessary to kill the friend you love in order to defeat the enemy you hate.

That is a lesson that people in our broad land of power can never afford to forget. Our young men came here from across the sea in the cause of freedom—but to many St. Lo patriots the price of freedom was death.

Here in St. Lo, man paid an expensive price for the liberty that everyone craves. And if America doesn't back the freedom principle, then it has all gone for naught.

So many stay-at-home Europeans judge us too quickly, without knowing us well, without realizing we are the most morally impatient people on earth. This is our hour of power. And we are trying to use our world power, for all our human and inhuman errors, to make it as free from fear and want as we can.

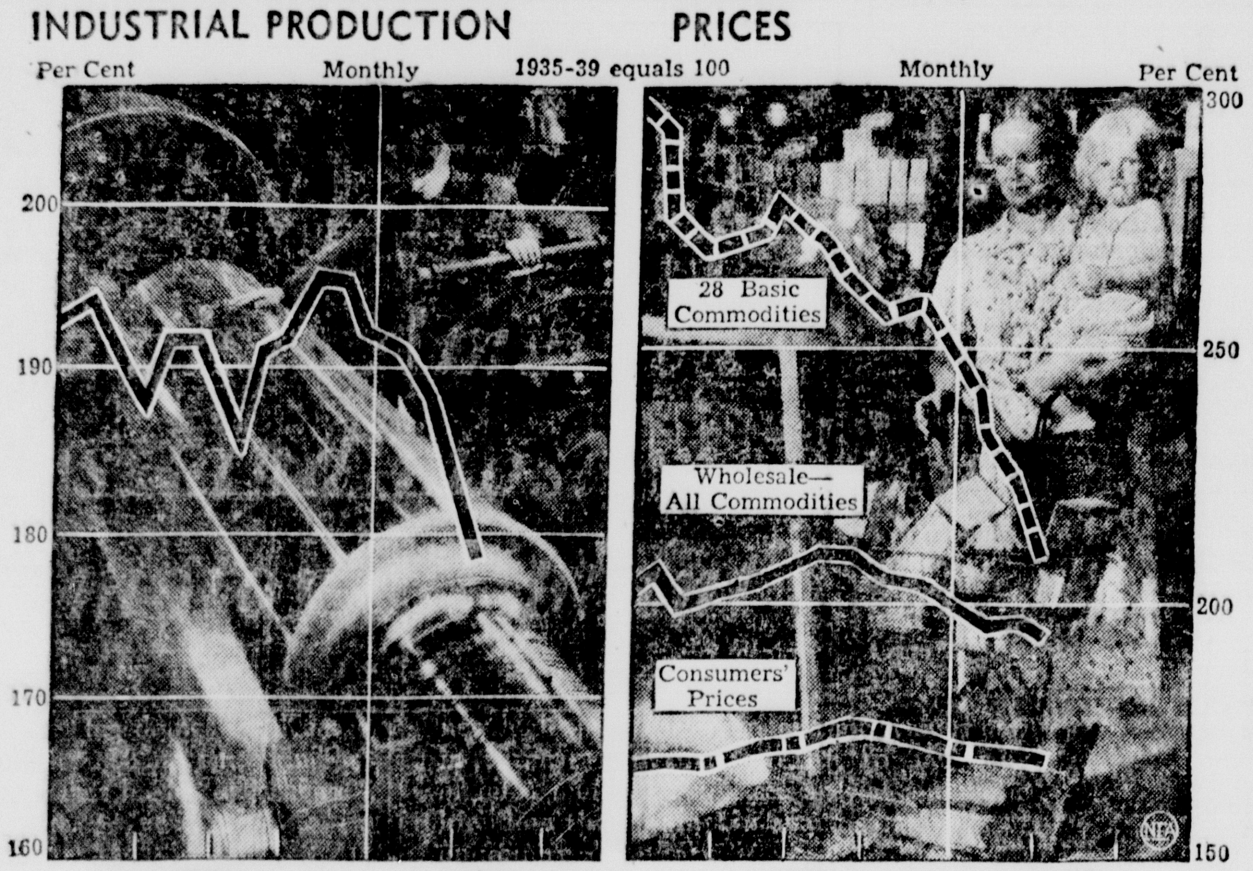
We do not assume that happiness and good living are only for our people, or one class among our people. We may be noisy, but we are not deeply selfish. Many of us realize we cannot stay comparatively rich in a world of wide poverty. Our aim is to end want, but to preserve the liberty without which the wealthiest man is a pauper.

If we miss our aims ourselves, it isn't because we don't feel that all men should be free and happy. It's only in our own great land that we haven't been great enough to shape and deliver a perfect world. But it's the world we believe in with all our moral might and it's the world we try to make come true. And some day it will come true, though we don't rule the world, as no one country should.

Here, where we hurt our friends, it is good to know that some remember and forgive.

We Americans who fought to drive the German from this town will never forget. If we helped tear you apart, and Lord knows we did, we also know you belong to us in your ruins exactly as we belong to you in our strength. We are as helpless—big and powerful as we are—as you are helpless. Our courage is our common salvation.

We can rebuild St. Lo and the world—you and we who helped beat both to pieces, only insofar as we believe in each other. Only through mutual faith can we reassemble the scattered stones of our time and make a living monument to man—the inheritor of hate but also the only possible architect of order in our world.



PRICES AND PRODUCTION ON DOWNGRADE—These newscharts show how industrial production and prices declined in the first quarter of 1949, according to current economic reports issued by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System. Production is down from 195 per cent last November to an estimated 179 for April. The decline has been general, since activity has decreased in 13 of 19 industry groups. In prices, basic commodities dropped the most, while consumer prices show only slight reduction. Most significant decline this year has been in metal markets, with steel scrap and non-ferrous metals scrap down 40 to 50 per cent. The price support program for many farm products has prevented more marked declines in that field.

Rates Cut On Auto Liability Insurance In Upper Pneinsula

Lansing, (AP)—State Insurance Commissioner David A. Forbes has announced approval of revision of public liability and property damage automobile insurance rates by 42 companies.

The revisions will bring reductions of the combined coverage in Detroit, Detroit suburbs and parts of the Upper ePninsula. Rates will increase in the rest of the state.

The 42 companies, members of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, cited rising labor costs and increased new cars requiring more expensive repairs are principal reasons for the increases where they apply.

Forbes said the revision would result in an average state-wide reduction in public liability rates of 14.6 per cent and a 16.6 per cent increase in property damage.

The 42 companies, which include the Standard Accident of Detroit and a group of out of state companies centering in the east, do about a third of the auto insuring in Michigan, Forbes said. He added the other companies were expected to follow suit.

In Detroit, the reductions in combined coverage range between $5 and $7. Rates were reduced in the Detroit suburbs between $1.50 and $3.

In the Upper Peninsula counties of Alger, Baraga, Delta, Dickinson, Gogebic, Houghton, Iron, Keweenaw, Marquette, Menominee, Ontonagon and Schoolcraft, combined coverage rates dropped between $5.50 and $8.

Rates in the Flint area took the sharpest jump. They were increased between $8.50 and $11. In all other Michigan cities and rural areas, the rates rose a flat $2.

The companies filing the new rates insured 173,000 Michigan passenger cars in 1947. In 1946 and 1947 they were paid a total of $7,100,000 in premiums for public liability and property damage insurance.

Modified Michigan Labor Law Signed

Lansing, (AP) —Governor Williams has signed a modification of the Bonine-Tripp labor relations law, describing it as "a slight improvement in a bad law."

The governor said the amendments passed by the recent legislature "do not change the basic character of the Bonine-Tripp act which is still unsatisfactory labor legislation. The amendments, however, represent some comparatively minor improvements."

The new statute extends the present five-day waiting period in labor disputes generally, requiring 10 days notice of a dispute to the state labor mediation board and forbids a strike to be called for 10 days thereafter.

One provision, overcoming strong labor objections to the former law, permits a strike to be called by a majority of the employes voting on the premises.

The old law required a majority vote of all those in a bargaining unit.

The new law also gives the board discretion to hold a strike election off the employers' premises.

Another provision permits voluntary arbitration by agreement of both management and labor, makes the decision of the arbitrators binding upon both parties and permits the decision to be enforced by the courts. The new law sets up a detailed procedure for heading off strikes in public utilities and hospitals.

In those disputes, notice must be given to the mediation board, which then must investigate to determine if a settlement can be reached. If no settlement is obtained within 30 days the dispute is certified by the board to the governor.

The governor is required to appoint a special five-man mediation panel. It consists of three so-called "public" members with voting priviliges and two non-voting representatives of management and labor.

The law instructs the special commission to certify its findings to the governor within 30 days.

In an attempt to bring the force of public opinion to bear on the dispute and to prevent a strike, the governor is required to make public the findings of the special commission.

Then another 10-day waiting period is required during which collective bargaining must be resumed.

At the end of the final 10-day period—a total of 70 days since mediation was started—employes are permitted to hold a strike vote.

During the entire period the law forbids any change in the terms or conditions of employment except by agreement and during the same period no strike can legally take place.

June 4 Proposed As Old Maids Day

Norristown, Pa., (AP)—Fifty women, all unmarried, celebrated "Old Maid's Day" June 4.

And all the women are proud—of being old maids.

"We're not spinsters and we're not bachelor girls," explained 54-year-old Marion Richards. "We're just plain old maids.'

The dinner celebration is Miss Richards' brainchild. It was born a year ago when a few "old maids" got together and started talking—as most women usually do.

The conversation centered on:

There's a Mother's Day, Father's Day, Memorial Day. St. Patrick's Day, Twelfth Day, Old Lady Day, Midsummer Day, St. Swithin's Day, New Years, Day, Inauguration Day, Independence Day, Labor Day—

But—No day for old maids.

Miss Richards said: "Let's make June 4 old maid's day."

"We hope it will spread all over the country so all unmarried women will have one day out of the year to celebrate their status," she added.

Menominee Warden Loses Court Suit

Jackson Rules Search For Arms Illegal

Menominee, Mich., June 8. (AP)—A Michigan conservation warden is not a peace officer and therefore cannot search for firearms outside of a home under immunity granted peace officers in a 1936 state constitutional amendment.

This ruling was made today by Circuit Judge Glenn W. Jackson in a case of the state against Adolph Bisionette, of Menominee.

Bisonette was arrested in 1947 just before the deer hunting season for carrying a rifle in his car. A Michigan law says it is illegal to transport a gun through game country within 15 days of a hunting season.

Taken into justice court Bissonette was fined $25 and costs. He refused to pay and appealed to circuit court on the grounds that his constitutional rights were violated. His defense attorney maintained that the rifle could not be used as evidence because it had been illegally seized. The state contended the seizure was legal under the 1946 constitutional amendment which said in effect that any seizure of a firearm outside of a home by a peace officer could be used in evidence even though the search and seizure itself was unlawful.

The state further contended that any violation of law was a breach of peace.

Aimed At Gangsters

Judge Jackson, however, ruled in favor of Bissonette and said the rifle could not be used as evidence. A conservation warden was not a peace officer, he held, and could not act under the amendment. The state asked him to reverse his stand.

In today's opinion Judge Jackson reiterated his previous stand. The primary purpose of the amendment, he said, was to reach so-called gangsters who carry weapons to rob and murder. The amendment came at a time when the infamous "Purple Gang" was terrorizing Detroit.

Judge Jackson said further: "The amendment is a retrogressvie step toward nullification of one of the most important rights to have come down through the ages. Because the amendment is a radical departure and innovation in the law of seizures and searches its application should not be unduely extended. If we assume the validity of the law its application should be restricted to its literal wording."

The judge added that it was not the duty of his court to rule on the validity of the amendment.

Spokesmen for the state and conservation department indicated the case would be taken to the Michigan supreme court.

Atlantic Pact Put First On Senate Roster

treaty, but he is not in favor of making any major changes which would force re-negotiation of the 12-nation pact.

War Powers Argued

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, turned away questions about when the arms program will be submitted or when some Senate action on it may be possible.

The heaviest fire against the pact is expected from Senators Donnell (R-Mo) and Watkins (R-Utah). Both have argued the treaty would premit the president to commit this nation to war without approval by congress.

The Foreign Relations committee report declared the pact gives the president no powers over the armed forces which he does not already have.

Connally told reporters that "with or without the treaty" the president has the power to send the armed forces to strategic points "in anticipation of an armed attack."

As commander-in-chief of the armed forces, Connally said, the president may station combat forces throughout the United States and "at our bases wherever they might be."

The Texan argued the treaty neither adds to nor subtracts from the constitutional powers of the president or congress.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Republican leader in foreign affairs, said the committee's report was "very conclusive."

"I think it should clarify any questions which do not really arise out of total opposition to the whole idea," he added.

No one will say precisely when the treaty will be called up for debate. All indications are it will be toward the latter part of the session, unless international events create pressure for faster action.

String of Holdups In Detroit Solved By Killer's Story

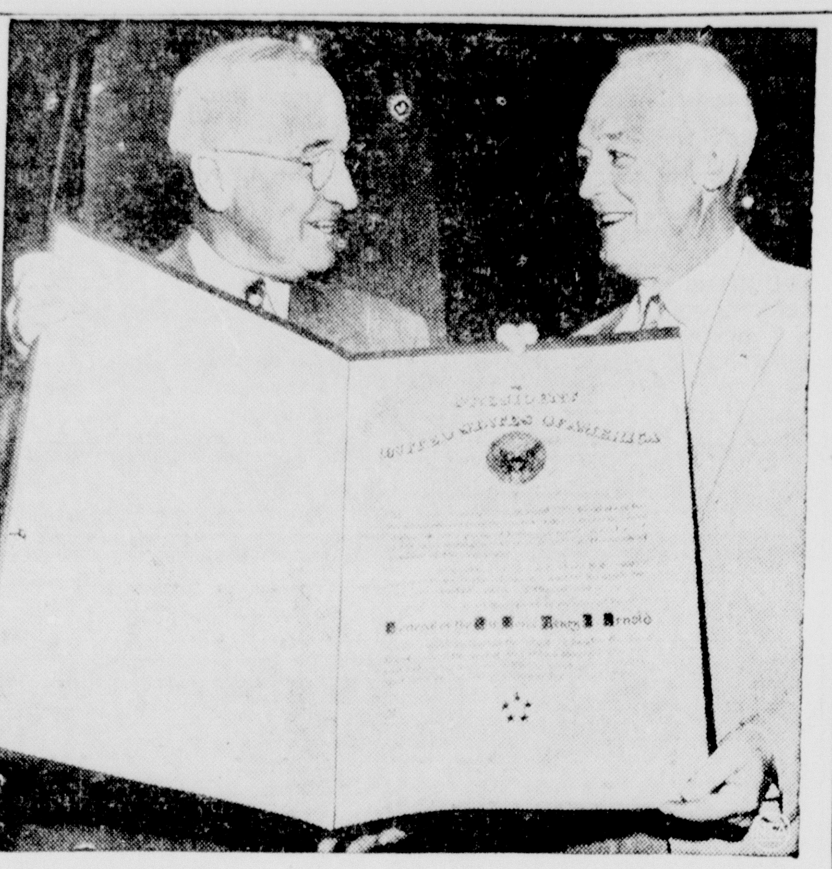
Flint, Mich., June 8 (AP) — Detroit police today intensified their questioning of John H. Smith, 40, confessed slayer of a Flint cabbie, after claiming that preliminary talks have solved holdups and robberies netting thousands of dollars.

Detectives sent here from Detroit said Smith had admitted being the leader of a gang which has looted Detroit homes and business places since last fall. He implicated four others, they said.

Officers said they want to question Smith particularly about the theft of furs from a salesman staying at a Detroit hotel (Statler) last winter.

They said Smith's earlier statement that he had committed a crime in Detroit "too big to talk about" might refer to the fur theft.

After questioning, they discarded the theory that he might have meant the shootings of Walter and Victor Reuther, CIO-United Auto Workers leaders. Police said they believed the admitted killer had no connection with those shootings.



DOUBLE TAKE—Gen. H. H. Arnold walked into President Truman's office as an Army officer and left as a member of the Air Force. Here, the President presents the nation's top wartime air officer with a special commission transferring him from one service to the other. The Air Force was set up as a separate unit after the five-star general retired.

School Grant Bill Signed In Lansing

Sum Of $82,000,000 Made Available By State

Lansing, June 8. (AP)—The state's $82,000,000 grant in aid to local public schools was made law with Governor Williams' signature today.

The governor said he signed the bill because the schools needed the money but that he objected to a number of shortcomings in the measure.

Among these he cited a failure to reduce classroom teaching loads sufficiently, failure to increase teachers' pay, failure to impose a 10 months school year, failure to pay teachers' retirement funds out of the state's general funds and the legislature's action in increasing the school admission age from four and one half to five years.

Williams also signed the two Higgins bills to plug loopholes in the collection of sales and use taxes.

The new law requires merchants to file copies of their federal income tax returns along with a new annual sales tax return, forbids the state to waive penalties and interest for fraudulent tax evasion, permits recovery of deficiencies for six years instead of three and requires local assessing offices to help the state spot tax chiselers.

The governor also approved legislation authorizing the establishment of prison camps on state-owned land with the dual purpose of speeding the rehabilitation of convicts and helping with conservation projects. An appropriation of $100,000 is provided.

Williams signed a bill appropriating $2,000 to Arthur Pomranky of Chippewa county as compensation for the death of his daughter, killed by a wild bear last summer.

Other bills signed:

Require pasteurized cream and milk to be stored and transported in a sanitary manner below 50 degrees fahrenheit.

Tighten the definition of residents under the Veterans Bonus Law, permit reopening of rejected veterans claims and require notification to a veteran of a rejected claim.

Create a chief deputy clerk for the Grand Rapids superior court and increase court staff salaries.

Revise the funeral directors' law and establish standards of conduct for funeral directors.

Set aside 30 per cent of the state library appropriation for an account for establishing and developing county and regional libraries and give any area with 20,000 persons a minimum grant of $15,000 for a library if they raise a specified amount locally.

Increase the household furniture property tax exemption from $1,000 to $3,000, exempt from taxation agricultural products awaiting shipment outside Michigan in public warehouses and exempt personal property owned by state banks or trust companies from taxation.

Make a series of changes in the municipal Civil Service law, limiting promotions to those who have completed two years in one rank and have five years of employment in a department.

Make it mandatory rather than discretionary for school districts to provide education for its pupils above the eighth grade by paying tuition in other school districts.

VETERAN ACTOR DEAD

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 8 (AP)—Frank McIntyre, 71-year-old stage and radio actor, died today in St. Joseph's Mercy hospital.

The veteran actor, who played roles in several Broadway stage productions, also was the original "Captain Henry" in the radio "Showboat" program.

Frost Does Damage On Michigan Farms

(By The Associated Press)

Severe frost damage was reported today in many of Michigan's most prosperous farming areas.

While the temperature dropped to record lows throughout the state, crop producers in western and southeastern Michigan suffered heavy losses.

Some major losses were reported in the state's potato, tomato, bean, cucumber and corn crops. Generally, however, fruit crops were not harmed.

In the Oakland and Macomb county areas of southeastern Michigan, as much as one-third of the total crop of potatoes and tomatoes were reported affected. Beans and cucumbers were termed an outright 10 per cent loss.

In Oceana county, where the mercury dropped to 29, Stokely Food Products of Hart reported almost complete loss of one 500-acre field of string beans. Losses in the cherry crop also were feared.

Only minor damage was reported in most of central Michigan, although the temperature dropped to the lowest marks for the date in history.

Cadillac, with a low of 18, was the coldest spot in the nation. Record temperatures were tied at Grand Rapids, where it was 38, and sault Ste. Marie, where it was 31.

Ilse of Buchenwald To Be Tried Again On German Charges

Munich June 8 (AP)—German justice officials reported today they were planning a new trial of Ilse Koch, widow of the former commander of the Buchenwald concentration camp.

Her life sentence was commuted to four years imprisonment by American authorities last year and she will be eligible for release from Landsberg prison by Oct. 18.

The commutation is based on a decision of a reviewing board that there was no evidence she participated in the killing of Buchenwald inmates.

Dr. Hans Walther, department-al chief of the Bavarian justice ministry, said evidence had been found she mistreated and participated in the killing of German camp inmates.

The previous sentence was based on charges of mistreating subjects of the United Nations, he said.

Revival of Import Copper Tax Asked By Rep. Bennett

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Congress was asked today to resume the import tax on copper.

Rep. Bennett (R-Mich) introduced a measure to repeal a law waiving the tariff on the metal for one year after June 1, 1949. The law was adopted March 31.

Bennett said the law is damaging northwestern Michigan's copper mining industry.

"Our deep shaft mines are closed," he said, "and tax free imports are not helping them to open."

Senator McFarland (D-Ariz) told a reporter he and nine other senators will offer legislation similar to Bennett's in the Senate.

In 1947, when domestic industry was extremely short of copper supplies, Congress suspended the 4-cents a pound duty on copper exports.

The present Congress extended the suspension for the current year.

Now supplies of the metal have overtaken the demand, prices have dropped and domestic mines are curtailing production, and congressmen say the need for imports has disappeared.

He Lied To Protect Friend Hiss, Ex-Red Chambers Testifies

New York, June 8 (AP)—Whittaker Chambers, admitting repeated perjury, said yesterday he lied to protect Alger Hiss and others whom he since has accused of complicity in a prewar Soviet spy ring.

"I sought to keep them from the ultimate consequences of what they had done," Chambers testified at Hiss' federal court trial on perjury charges.

"I was particularly anxious to protect Mr. Hiss because of our close friendship in past years and because he is a very able man. Therefore, I chose to jeopardize myself rather than reveal the whole story."

Chambers, self-styled former courier for Red spies, gave the explanation after admitting he lied seven times before the federal grand jury that indicted Hiss.

The witness has accused Hiss, former high-ranking state department official, of giving him government secrets to be passed on to Red spies. When Hiss denied that to the grand jury he was indicted on perjury charges.

Communists Not Fit For U.S. Teachers, Top Educators Say

By VERN HAUGLAND

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Twenty top-flight, educators—including General Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harvard President James B. Conant—said today Communists should be barred from the teaching profession.

They agreed too, that principles of Communism should be taught—but not advocated—in American schools.

Their charge that Communist membership "renders an individual unfit to discharge the duties of a teacher in this country" was described by a national education association official as the most outspoken statement on that subject ever made by an education group of nation-wide standing.

Eisenhower, now president of Columbia university, Conant and 18 fellow members of an educational policies commission made their observations in a 54-page report on "American Education and International Tensions.."

The commission was appointed by the National Education Association and the American Association of School Administrators.

Its purpose was to study the teaching changes that might be advisable in view of political tensions that may "keep the world in a state of cold war for years to come."

Accurate Study Advised

The commission listed these "main lines of strategy" for American education:

1. "Young citizens should have an opportunity to learn about the principles and practices of totalitarianism, including those represented by the Soviet Union and by the Communist party in the United States. The study should be accurate and objective, and should make use of basic official documents."

2. "Teaching about Communism or any other form of dictatorship does not mean advocacy of these doctrines. Such advocacy should not be permitted in American schools. While we expose and combat subversive activities in this country and abroad X X X we must at the same time curb reactionary forces which would use anti-Communist sentiment as a club to threaten every effort to improve society through education."

3. "The schools should continue with vigor their programs for giving young citizens a clear understanding of the principles of the American way of life and a desire to make these principles prevail."

4. "Members of the Communist party of the United States should not be employed as teachers."

Sewer Hole Cavein Kills Detroit Man

Detroit, June 8 (AP)—The cave-in of a 12-foot sewer excavation at the Wyandotte Chemicals Corp. killed one man last night and sent two others to a hospital.

Four rescuers required treatment after inhaling fumes from a broken gas pipe.

Michael Betki, 38, was pronounced dead on arrival at Wyandotte General hospital. His chest was crushed.

In "fair" condition at the same hospital were Morgan Foley, 50, and Howard Roe, 24.

Betki was buried by the falling dirt and rescuers dug 40 minutes to uncover him. Foley and Roe were buried up to their waists.

Cause of the cave-in was not determined.

High School Names Two More Students For Scholarships

In addition to the previously mentioned students of Escanaba Senior high school who received scholarships, Gerald Baker and Arlene Walstad have received honorary scholarships. Baker received a scholarship to Michigan college of Mining and Technology at Houghton and Miss Walstad to Cloverland Commercial college in Escanaba, through the Kiwanis club.

Edward Edick, principal, said this morning the names had inadvertently been omitted from the original list of students receiving scholarships.

Scholarship awards and other honorary merits were conferred yesterday afternoon at exercises in William W. Oliver auditrium.

Seniors of the high school who will graduate, 201, will hold their banquet tonight at 6:30 p. m., in the dining room of Bethany Lutheran church. Don Carlson, senior class president, will be toastmaster. Mary Groos, Nancy Flink and the Witham twins will furnish a musical program and Jean Wylie and JoAnne Barron will speak Stephen Baltic will be the faculty speaker.

The traditional senior dance sponsored by the junior class will be held tonight beginning at 8 p. m., in the high school gymnasium. Junior class officers, Jim Chapekis, George Rouman and Jim Prokos, are in charge.

Fire and Explosion Wrecks Jinx Bridge Tower At Tacoma

Tacoma, Wash., June 8 (AP) — Explosions and fire early today seriously damaged a 502-foot tower nearing completion for a new suspension bridge across Tacoma narrows.

Damage to the West tower on the "jinxed" highway crossing from Tacoma to the Olympic peninsula was estimated at $400,000 or more.

Exploding oil and gasoline drums and the leaping flames were heard and seen for many miles around. The fire consumed building scaffolds up to the top of the steel and concrete structure.

Tom Martinsen, resident engineer for the Bethlehem Pacific Steel Construction company, said that if the intense heat buckled the lower steel sections the entire tower might have to be rebuilt.

The $13,000,000 span is to replace the original bridge which toppled into the narrows during a storm Nov. 7, 1940. A saddle was knocked off the east tower of the new structure in a recent earthquake.

Construction men said the fire might have started from a hot rivet dropped into a creosote-soaked fiber mat at the tower's base.

Cadillac Coldest With 21 Degrees

Chicago, June 8 (AP)—Temperatures dipped below freezing in some parts of the Midwest today as cool weather hit over a wide area.

Cool breezes also lowered temperatures over the northeastern section of the country. Readings were normal in other states. Yesterday's top mark was 104 at Yuma, Ariz.

The mercury dropped to 21 above at Cadillac, Mich., for the country's lowest reading. It was at and below the freezing mark in some other parts of Michigan's northern lower peninsula.

Skies generally were clear over the entire country but Lake Charles, La. reported thunderstorms last night, with a fall measuring 4.40 inches.

Dow Plane Tragedy Blamed On Wing Ice

Ottawa, June 8 (AP)—Icing was blamed today for the plane crash which killed Dr. Willard Dow, his wife and three others near London, Ont., March 31.

A board of inquiry also listed poor judgment on the part of the pilot as a contributing factor.

The crash killed Dow, president of the Dow Chemical Co., his wife, Mrs. C. Campbell, A. J. Bowie, pilot, and F. Clements, co-pilot.

The only survivor was C. Campbell, who suffered shock.

The board said the pilot was imprudent in attempting the flight in view of available weather reports.

Negro Ends Chilly Water Tank Sitdown At Waupun Prison

Waupun, Wis., June 8 (AP) — Convict George Taylor, cold and hungry, climbed down from near the top of a 50-foot water tower at the Wisconsin state prison early today after a 14-hour "sit-down strike."

Taylor, 38 year old Negro from Kenosha, Wis., had perched on a catwalk under the 50-foot water tank from noon yesterday until 2 a. m. (CST) today. Temperatures dipped into the 30's during the night.

Warden John Burke said Taylor's only explanation was that he wanted to "show everybody that he was being 'mistreated' in prison." Taylor was given something to eat, Burke said, and then he was placed in solitary confinement pending a psychiatric test later today.

Guards stationed at the foot of the tower throughout Taylor's sitdown, seized him when he descended. Burke said guards would have had a difficult time removing Taylor as the safety bands around the ladder would render them almost defenseless.

The warden said Taylor has served 15 years of a 20-year sentence for armed robbery.

Navy Will Abolish Race Discrimination

New Policy Ends Conflict Of Color and Creed

Washington, June 8 (AP)—The navy was free today to put into effect its plan for assuring "equality of treatment and opportunity" for all its personnel, regardless of race, religion or color.

That policy was approved yesterday by Secretary of Defense Johnson.

It was submitted following Johnson's order to comply with President Truman's directive aimed at abolishing discrimination in the three armed services.

The air force plan was approved last month, but Johnson said he turned down a proposal submitted by the army and asked for a new one by June 20.

The navy policy says:

"All personnel will be enlisted or appointed, trained, advanced or promoted, assigned to duty and administered in all respects without regard to race, color, religion or national origin.

"In the utilization of housing, messing, berthing and other facilities, no special or unusual provisions will be made for the accomodation of any minority race.'

Officials would not say whether this means an end to segregation of Negroes.

The policy applies to the Marine Corps as well as the navy.

In his memorandum directing the army to submit a new plan, Johnson said considerable progress has been made by the ground forces in recent years toward ending segregation. He said the problem "is of greater magnitude in the army than in either the navy or air force."

Doomed Jake Bird Denied Last Chance To Beat The Noose

Walla Walla, Wash. June 8 (AP) —Jake Bird's latest, and possibly his last, maneuver to beat the noose was denied by a federal court judge yesterday.

A new execution date — his fourth—will soon be set.

The 48-year-old Negro was convicted of murdering Mrs. Bertha Kludt in Tacoma in 1947. Her daughter was also slain. At the time of his conviction Bird pronounced a hex on those responsible for his conviction. Since then five persons connected with the case have died.

Police officials who have questioned Bird since his conviction said he admitted knowledge of or implication in 44 slayings throughout the country.

Chief Judge William Denman of the Ninth U. S. District Court of Appeals rejected the convicted axe-slayer's latest appeal for hearing. Denman held there was no basis for Bird's complaint that police had beaten a confession from him.

Bird's third scheduled walk to the gallows was postponed for 30 days on May 26 by Judge Denman. The stay came a few hours before the convicted slayer was to hang at the state penitentiary here.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, June 8 (AP)—Grains shot up in a heavy buying movement on the Board of Trade today, prodded by overnight announcement of the agriculture department of a broad extension in its support price program. Wheat rose nearly nine cents at its best.

The shorts beat a hasty retreat. They tried to get grain at the start and found very little being offered. They had to bid up the price to get out of the market. While wheat paced the upturn, other cereals joined in with vigor.

Some profit-taking developed after the start with the market churning about in a wild state. It finally settled down a cent or more under its best level, but showed no pronounced weakness. Much of the early buying came from local pit traders.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was four to 6⅜ cents higher, July $$1.94; corn was 1⅛ to 1½ higher, July $1.31¾; and oats were ¾ to one cent higher, July 59⅛. Soybeans were 2¾ to 3¾ cents higher, July $2.20¾.

Medical Association Muzzles Dr. Fishbein

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

New York, N. Y., (AP)—Dr. Morris Fishbein, long regarded as the spokesman for American medicine, has been toppled from that mythical height by the American Medical association.

Dr. Fishbein's only official job is editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association. He has never had a vote in the AMA's house of delegates—the real rulers of American medicine who are elected by the medical professional. He has not even been permitted to attend some of the secret sessions of the house.

Yet he has been called the czar of American medicine — even by some doctors.

Dr. Fishbein is a man of medium height, with smiling eyes and youthful color in his face. He is a noted raconteur, a public speaker who can entertain both lay and medical audiences. He is always pleasant spoken, never dictatorial.

Never Forgets

His memory is photographic, and it seems he never forgets. He reads an entire paragraph at one glance and sometimes a page with two looks.

An author who was a dinner guest at Dr. Fishbein's Chicago home admired the big library. The author's books were there. Discussion rose about a passage the author had written ten years previously. The author named the book carrying it. Dr. Fishbein said the writer was mistaken; it was a different book.

He named the chapter, and said he had not looked in the book for ten years. Fishbein was right, the author wrong.

This book was not on medicine. On medical facts in dispute there is no record of Fishbein being wrong. This ability to be right all the time has not always endeared him to doctors.

But the ability has served the American Medical association richly. Fishbein, in the Journal, time after time has attacked rich and powerful medical quacks with words that would have been libelous if untrue. Many libel suits were brought. He won them all, but once paid one penny damages because the Journal identified a minister of the gospel when it was not deemed necessary.

In his role as editor of the Journal he reads about 30 magazines and other voluminous sources daily. He made this Journal the richest medical publication in the world. The profits do not go to him, but to pay expenses of the AMA's headquarters.

Column Banned

He edits several smaller medical publications, writes books, a news column and magazine stories. He makes speeches all over the western hemisphere and occasionally in Europe, and is a radio and magazine consultant on scientific and medical articles.

The trustees of the AMA in Atlantic City curtailed these activities sharply. Dr. Fishbein was forbidden to make any speeches or statements—or even give press interviews—on any controversial subjects. All his speaking engagements will be made by the AMA executive committee, which also will supervise all his editorials dealing with controversial issues.

Trustees thus apparently have stilled the voice which has been most quoted recently in the long debates over social and political changes in medicine.

The pay-off was the elimination of his column, written in the style of Samuel Pepys' "Dairy," from the AMA Journal.

This was strictly a humor column—one of the best, and one of the features first read by the more than 100,000 doctor subscribers.

The Dairy dealt with the daily goings and comings of Dr. Fishbein, with the people he met, their pastimes, luncheons and dinners, with state occasions and anecdotes, with the great, near-great and unknowns who touch a doctor's daily life.

New Indoor Farm In Pasadena Makes Its Own Weather

Pasadena, Calif., (AP)—A new world of agriculture, in which plants that never see the sun or feel the elements produce crops of incredible size and flavor, awaits just over the horizon.

Between that world and this, scientists say, lie only a few years of experimentation—in a new "climate factory" at the California Institute of Technology.

It's the Earhard Plant Research laboratory—a super green house with built-in-weather and soil controls. Every kind of climate in the world which will support plant life can be reproduced in this $400,000 nursery. Built with funds donated by the Earhart foundation of Ann Arbor, Mich., it will be dedicated next week.

Known as the "Phytotron," the laboratory will artifically recreate or eliminate all but one of the known factors in plant growth such as soil, climate, insects and sunlight.

The one factor which the Phytotron will not be able to control is cosmic radiation. These are the mysterous rays which come from somewhere out in the universe, constantly bombarding the earth and sometimes changing the evolution of living things upon it.

Turn Valve—Get Smog

"We don't know any way to protect our plants or ourselves from these radiations," says Dr. Frits Went, director of the laboratory. "But we hope, by controlling all other factors, to learn exactly what effect these radiations do have.

"Strangely enough, we already know more about the effects of radiation—through X-ray experiments—than we do about the effects of weather. Experts have bred strains of fruit and vegetables for one characteristic or another through generations, and have never known which effect was due to breeding one year, or to weather the next.

"If we can tell in advance what plants will grow best in what climate, we should be able to increase the world's food supply even under current farming methods.

"Eventually, we may find it feasible to grow all crops in such laboratories. The increase in yield and flavor may well justify the expense. It already is true in the case of orchids."

As the word "Phytotron' suggests, it is not so much a greenhouse as a huge instrument for the study of botany.

The various rooms produce temperatures ranging from 35 to 88 degrees. Humidity can be reduced to 10 per cent, simulating desert air, Rain, fog and even smog (smoke and fog) can be created by the turn of a valve on the huge instrument board in the director's office.

New Relief Found For Peptic Ulcers

By FRANK CAREY

Atlantic City, N. J., (AP)—A new and "distinctly promising" tablet treatment for peptic (stomach) ulcers was reported to the American Medical association.

In involves use of tablets containing two chemicals—sodium carboxy-methylcellulose and a small amount of magnesium oxide. The tablets are designed to combat acid in the stomach.

Dr. S. P. Barlow of the Hines veterans hospital, Hines, Ill., and Dr. M. A. Spellberg of the University of Illinois school of medicine made the report with several other colleagues.

They said the tablets serve to coat the lining of the stomach "with a protective xxx layer" and "buffer' acidity for a prolonged period of time.

"We feel," the doctors reported, "that the new preparation xxx represents a valuable addition to the armamentarium for the treatment of peptic ulcers.

"It is believed that no other drug or method known will have an equal all-around effectiveness in most ulcer patients. It is true that therapy (treatment) must be individualized and it is necessary in each case to determine the drug which will bring about the most favorable response.

"It would seem, however, that our new preparation ranks among the best of the group of drugs available for ulcer therapy and deserves a wide trial and critical follow-up.

"Theoretically, in laboratory experiments and practically, in clinical use, it has been shown to be distinctly promising."

The doctors described tests involving 105 patients treated by the new method and 100 patients treated with an aluminium hydroxide preparation, one of the standard treatments for peptic ulcer.

During a one-year follow-up, 23 per cent of those treated by the new method had relapses necessitating hospitalization, while 34 per cent of those receiving the aluminum preparation had relapses.

At the end of the year, 61 per cent of the patients treated by the new method were entirely free of symptoms, as against 40 per cent in the other group.

The doctors declared the new medicine "is not only non-constipating but also conducive to normal elimination."

Wall Street Gets Bitter Little Pill

By SAM DAWSON

New York, (AP)—Wall Street has another dose of bad news to swallow. The business slump has reached the point where such bad medicine may be expected at frequent intervals.

The capsule contains bitter little pills from the steel, copper, home appliance, retail trade and building industries and the vast melange lumped together as foreign trade

And unemployment jumped in May to a postwar high of more than three and a quarter million.

There are a couple of sweet items to sugar-coat the general picture. And, of course, there are some pronouncements from on high regarding the bright long-term outlook.

But, altogether, the news may well explain why stock prices are bumping near their postwar lows, and why optimists are scare these days in Wall Street.

Steel operations this week are at the lowest point since a year ago April, except for Christmas week. They are also at the lowest level since 1940 for any "normal" week—that is, any week free of holidays or labor stoppages.

Two reasons are given for this week's drop the eighth in a row. One, of course, is the general slowing down of the industrial pace and the consequent lessening demand for steel. The second is that some steel customers are simply holding off orders as long as they can because they expect steel to follow other commodities down the price-cutting trail. Steel executives stoutly deny they are going to cut prices, but some customers just don't believe them.

Copper production is being cut back. Falling prices make some mines unprofitable, while dormant demand makes high output at others unnecessary. Phelps Dodge has cut back Arizona production by about 5,000 tons a month. Anaconda has stopped work at one Montana mine. Kennecott has cut the work week at several mines. Calumet & Hecla on May 1 closed mines in Michigan. Altogether they have chopped about 13,000 tons a month off domestic production.

American exports in April were one per cent below March, the department of commerce reports, although still nine per cent above the 1948 monthly average.

Department stores in New York City report sales last week down 19 per cent from the like week a year ago, the largest percentage decline this year.

Now, for the good news. Grand Union food chain reports its sales in the week ended May 28 set a new weekly high. For the 13 weeks ended May 28 sales were 20 per cent above the like 1948 period.

Marshall Field announces plans to expand its Seattle store, Frederick & Nelson, practically doubling the floor space at a cost of $6½ million.

And Secretary of the Treasury Snyder keeps on reminding the nation that its financial and economic situation is basically sound.

SUMMER EVENING GOWNS spread their Victorian charms with bright, printed cottors. The bustle-back gown modeled by the dancer (left) is of floral printed cotton pique. Strapless decolletage is banded with black velvet. Sue Howel, the "Maid of Cotton," (right) wears a hoop-skirted dress of plaid gingham which has matching ruffle-edged stole.

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Fashion Editor

New York, (NEA)—The Victorian hoop and bustle will sway to 1949 jive tunes on this summer's dance floors.

Designed to "wow" the stag line are printed cottons, dresses which might have billowed out of a family album.

The bustle which stamps many such fashions as Victorian-inspired is usually a ruffled cascade or bow set at the waistline of a snug-bodiced, full-skirted dress. Printed piques which interpret this style make the most of splashy florals. The poppy makes a colorful motif for one pique print with a background of white. To point up the Victorian flavor of this bustle-back, bare-topped dress, designer Fred Perlberg accents the strapless decolletage with banding and bows of black velvet ribbon.

The hoop helps another Victorian-inspired cotton formal to spread its charms. This multicolor plaid gingham dress which is a wardrobe choice of Sue Howell, this year's "Maid of otton," was designed by Emma Domb of San Francisco. Enhancing the Victorian charms of this hoop-skirted dress which features a full, knee-ruffled skirt and a waist-hugging bodice, is a double-ruffled stole of matching gingham.

Kirt also of LaBranche, at a ceremony performed this morning at 10 o'clock by Probate Judge William J. Miller. The bride wore an attractive navy blue street length dress of nylon net over taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. The newlyweds will make their home in LaBranche where Mr. Kirt is in business.

Stars Debating Use Of French Bathing Suits

By Bob Thomas

Hollywood, June 8 (AP)—To show or not to show.

That is the question facing millions of American women now that hot weather is approaching.

The Riviera-style bathing suit invaded these shores some time ago, but its popularity has been greater among male observers than female wearers. This summer will probably tell whether the scanty panties will be accepted in the U. S.

For opinions on this momentous question, I asked some of the style-setting glamor girls of Hollywood. Here is what they say:

Barbara Stanwyck: "If I had a figure like Esther Williams', I'd be glad to wear a French bathing suit. She's one of the few girls who could look terrific in them. But they're not for me—no, sir!"

Esther Williams: "I don't like them for two reasons: First and foremost, they are just not flattering. Secondly, they are impractical, you can't swim in them."

Joan Crawford: "I think everything American is better, including our designers. But what I've seen of French bathing suits looks very interesting. Their brevity makes sun bathing more appealing to the wearer and even more so to the observer."

Eve Arden: "They're ugly. Only women with beautifully proportioned figures can wear them. I'm an advocate of French designers, but this time they've gone a bit too far."

Betty Grable: "If the French girls want to show their navels, it's all right with me; but you won't catch me in one of those suits. I'll stick to the American kind."

"Make One Yourself!"

Jane Greer: "As scant and binding as they are, I doubt if any woman could truly relax in them. Unless the body is perfect, women would be self-conscious in the suits. They would spend two-thirds of their sun-bathing time holding in their waists and thinking of their posture."

Angela Lansbury: "They are all right if worn away from the eyes of peeping Toms. Sun-bathing is good for health, but I feel designers have taken too much liberty in exhibiting a woman's figure for the benefit of the male sex."

Marie Wilson: "I can't understand why girls go out and pay money for French suits. After all, you can make one yourself out of three or four band-aids."

Dorothy Anderson Dr. Paul Thomas Wed In Chicago

A beautiful late spring wedding was that of Dorothy Louise Anderson, when she became the bride of Dr. Paul O. Thomas, jr., on Saturday, May 28, in Chicago.

The vows were exchanged before an altar banked with white spring flowers at the Thorndyke Hilton Chapel on the University of Chicago campus at 3 o'clock. Rev. William Hyllengren officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Axel E. Anderson of Detroit, former residents of Escanaba. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul O. Thomas of Stuart, Florida.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of French silk marquisette, trimmed with Alagon lace, which was fashioned with a basque top, short cuffed sleeves, high neck, tiny collar, and a hooped skirt which fell into a long train. The finger tip veil of nylon illusion was held in place by a juliet cap of Alagon lace and seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of stephanotis and white orchids.

The maid of honor was Helen A. Anderson, only sister of the bride. Her pink gown of chantilly lace and marquisette was styled with a high neckline, cap sleeves, and a full skirt, topped with a peplum. She carried blue bachelor buttons and stephanotis in a colonial bouquet and wore similar flowers in her hair.

Miss Joan Westfall of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., was the only bridesmaid. She wore a mint green dress fashioned identically to the maid of honor. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink rose buds and stephanotis and also wore matching flowers in her hair.

Gerald Thomas of Stuart, Florida, was his brother's best man and ushering was Dr. Paul Alexander of Oklahoma City.

Home In Florida

The bride's mother wore a dress of dove grey silk, with a matching jacket and chose pale rose accessories. Her corsage was a deep purple orchid. Mrs. Thomas wore a dress of grey and blue silk print, with white accessories and a lavendar orchid corsage.

A reception was held for seventy five guests in the Prado room, of the Del Prado Hotel following the ceremony.

When the couple left on their honeymoon through Canada and the Eastern states, the bride was wearing a suit of cherry red with natural straw accessories and an orchid corsage.

The couple will be at home after June 15, in Stuart, Fla.

"Eleven" and "twelve" were originally written "oneteen' and "twoteen."

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Fashion takes over Anglo-U.S. relations by making matches between hats of Bahamian straw and wardrobes of American cotton.

To find unusual textures and colors of natural straw, hat-designer Mary E. Goodfellow went to the Bahamas for "silver top" palmetto and brown cocoanut. The results are a new "M.E.G." collection of gay color-spiced rollers, sombreros, cloches and sailors in neutral shades of straw which can go anywhere this summer that a cotton dress or a cotton suit can go.—EPSIE KINARD, NEA Fashion Editor.

Millinery stars in the collection of Bahamian straws styled for wear with American summer cottons are the hats pictured. Neutral-toned "silver top" palmetto straw makes the rippled cloche which the picnicker wears (above). The brown and white dotted band encircling the crown drapes easily over the brim. The golfer's sunshade (top right) of pale beige cocoanut straw is brightened by a boldly-striped tie silk band. Western-styled sombrero (center right) of palmetto straw ties under the chin with a red cord which also rings the crown. Interwoven light and dark cocoanut straw forms interesting pattern for roller (bottom right) which has striped cotton band around crown.

CIRCUIT COURT OPENS JUNE 20

No Jury Cases Will Be Heard At Session

The June term of Schoolcraft county circuit court convenes Monday, June 20 for a non-jury session with a smaller than average number of cases up for trial and the likelihood that there will be very lengthy cases up for hearing.

But two criminal causes are on the calendar, they being A. J. Markham, whose name remains on the calendar for investigation as to how faithfully he is carrying out court orders imposed on him. Francis Gorsche will appear for hearing on an assault count.

Listed among the civil cases are the following:

Burnette Tool Company versus Hiawatha Metal Products Company, on petition for discovery. Patent rights are involved in the issue. Johnson and Johnson represent the plaintiff and Hudson, Coates and Klem the defendants.

Liberty Loan vs. John Spielmacher is a motion for a new trial to clarify title to a car.

Linen Thread Company vs. Allen Jensen is an assumpsit action held over several terms of court.

Lorraine Spence vs. Clifford Lambert and Raymond Vanderwall, a default action dealing with judgement rendered in a case arising out of a motor accident.

Donald Leonard, Commissioner of State Police vs. Schoolcraft county involves the Schoolcraft county jail. It is an order to show cause why the building should not be vacated. It was condemned about a year ago.

Everett Pasina vs. Charlette Haseman and Charles Lakoski in an assumpsit action.

There are twelve cases in chancery most of which are divorce actions or deal with modification of decrees. Among other cases are two suits for recision—Marie Louise Bloom against Joseph L. Ponkey and Joe Levin vs John Kepsel.

One other case in chancery with an out of the ordinary twist to it is Roy Oberg et al vs. Anita M. Oberg in which the plaintiff is asking for an order to restrain Mrs. Oberg from removing her husbands body from Fairview cemetery and shipping it out to the state of Washington.

BOND RETIRES AS POLICEMAN

Had Been On Force For Thirty-three Years

Mike Bond, veteran Manistique policeman, is retiring.

Alert, agile and dependable as any man on the force, Mr. Bond recently passed his sixty-ninth birthday and that, he says should be retiring age for a policeman.

It was on May 8, 1916, thirty-three years ago, that he donned the uniform of a police officer on the Manistique force. There were three on the force then and they were on the job twelve hours per day—seven days a week.

"When you arrested a drunk in those days," says Bond, "you had no car at your disposal to take him to the lockup and there were no State Police to call upon if the going got rough. Of course, you could call for help or ask someone with a rig to give you a lift, but policemen were supposed to fight their own battles." Those were "horse and buggy" days and using a car for police duty was simply unheard of. He stated with pardonable pride that he had never been off duty on account of illness.

Manistique was quite a town in 1916, says Bond. The furnace was going full blast, Goodwillies plant was busy and the sawmill was running day and night. Everybody worked no less than ten hours per day so the twelve hour stretch was not figured excessive for a cop.

Learning to take situations in their turn was part of the job, "but no fooling, in the spring when the lumberjacks came down from the camps we had our hands full" and he added with a wink, a lot of those troubles were taken care of by the lumberjacks themselves.

Bond is not retiring completely. There is no provision in the municipal setup for pensions for retiring policemen so he accepted the next best thing. He is accepting a job at the pump station.

Succeeding him on the force is Robert V. Wood a young ex-service man 26 years old. Wood was born and raised in Manistique, is married and the father of two children.

Girls Have Monopoly On Scholastic Honors At Manistique High School

Women—young, bright, good looking women—seem to have a monopoly on scholastic honors at Manistique high school this year. When Principal Carl Olson recently announced the names of the honor students, those who had maintained highest grades were without exception girls.

Georgia Babladelis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Babladelis 154 North Cedar street is valedictorian, and Lawella Ann Burns of Germfask, is salutatorian.

In both instances, the top honor students, besides maintaining splendid grades, have devoted much time to student activities. Miss Babladelis has been active in the Future Homemakers' organization, the girls athletic association, the glee club, the Scroll, served as vice president of the Student association and was this year's editor of the high school's publication the Crier. She is also on the year book business staff. Her major studies have been mathematics and science. She will attend the University of Michigan next year having been awarded a regent-alumni scholarship.

Miss Burns, salutatorian, is also partial to mathematics. She has served as the Crier's feature staff and on the year book staff. She has been active in the Movie Club and in journalism. She will attend the Northwest Institute of Medical Technology at Minneapolis, next year.

Other honor students are Doris Schweikert, Anne Peters, Mildred Kerridge, Elnora Weber, Marion Knopp, Patricia Frankovich, Dorabelle Laurence, Shirley Laurence, Delores Toyra and Lois Rozich.

Municipal Band To Play Sunday At Mackinac City

The Manistique Municipal band will play its first out of town concert of the season next Sunday at Mackinac City, across the straits, where it has been asked to participate in the lilac festival at that point.

The band entourage will leave Manistique about seven o'clock in the morning with plans to catch the 9:15 boat.

First Appropriation Signed By Governor

Lansing, (AP)—Signing 21 legislative acts, Governor Williams approved his first major appropriations bills Tuesday.

One provides $54,310,000 for public welfare. The other provides $7,833,000 for minor departmental deficiencies in the current fiscal year.

Another bill signed permits the use of Fourth of July sparklers having no more than .0215 pounds of burning portion per sparkler.

Another bill approved makes the regular township registration for voting valid for school elections.

Other bills include those to:

Require agents as well as dealers and brokers in livestock to be licensed by the state, increase their bond from $10,000 to $15,000 and require them to keep records of sales and purchases for two years.

Permit public corporations to acquire, build, improve and extend public improvements with bond issues.

Permit the annexation of adjoining graded school districts and of graded school districts and of primary school districts.

Increase the conservation director's salary from $9,000 to $10,000.

Place a $12 per day maximum on the hospitalization charge for acute cases under the afflicted and crippled children acts and $8 per day for convalescent hospital or home care.

Raise the limit of property which may be owned by agricultural societies from $100,000 to $300,000.

Make it discretionary rather than mandatory for the governor to appoint a commissioner of a court of claims to handle veterans bonus cases and provide for an assistant commissioner for one year.

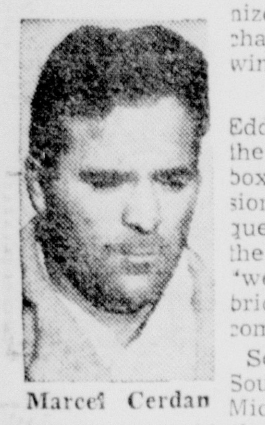
Monsieur Cerdan Does Not Worry About Jake LaMotta

Detroit, June 8 (AP)—The June 15 title fight here between world's middleweight champion Marcel Cerdan and Jake Lamotta was clouded a bit today by doubts whether New York would recognize Lamotta as champion if he wins.



Marcel Cerdan

Commissioner Eddie Eagan of the New York boxing commission parried the question with the declaration "we'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

Secretary Louis Souriall of the Michigan boxing commission said that if Lamotta is victorious he "will be recognized as champ in Michigan and the 26 other states which are members of the National Boxing Association."

New York is not a member of the NBA.

It has been no scret in boxing circles that the New York commission has frowned unofficially on the Cerdan-Lamotta title fight on the grounds that there are more capable opponents available for Cerdan—with the name of Steve Belloise high on the list.

The rugged Lamotta, who fights out of the Bronx, N. Y., has been in at least lukewarm water with the New York commission on several occasions.

The latest was a few months ago when he won a much disputed decision over Robert Villemain at New York. Eagan held a hearing after that fight when newspapermen and others questioned the decision, but it was not changed.

If New York state withholds its okay of Lamotta as a champion—if he beats Cerdan—it might lead to a recurrence of the dual championships that were fairly common a few years ago.

In these cases, the NBA states recognized one titlist and New York and other non-member states bestowed the accolades on another fighter.

Cerdan, who arrived here Monday to begin the Detroit phase of his fight training, said today he would solve the championship problem in a hurry by defeating Lamotta at Briggs stadium next Wednesday night.

Plans for outdoor training sites for the two battlers apparently fell through. Each was lodged in a hotel suite.

They worked out at different gyms yesterday as reports from press agent Francis Albertanti said ticket sales for the fight were "going great guns."

The fight is being promoted by the Olympia Stadium Corporation, an affiliate of Joe Louis' International Boxing club.

Lanier Won't Pitch For Cardinals Until He Gets More Money

New York, June 8 (AP) — Max Lanier says he won't pitch again for the St. Louis Cardinals until they pay him what he thinks he's worth.

"And that's a lot more than they've offered," the 33-year-old lefthander said by telephone last night from Drummondsville, Que.

"The next move is up to them," he said. "I'm going to stay right here. I'm not mad at anybody. It's just business with me."

Max Lanier

Lanier said he talked with Fred Saigh, president of the Cardinals, yesterday for the first time since his sudden reinstatement Sunday night.

"He told me the best offer he could make was $11,500," Lanier said. "That's what I was making when I left the club in 1946.

"I turned him down. I told him I wanted more money, a lot more. The reason I left the club in the first place was that I didn't think I was getting enough money."

Lanier's current salary in the Quebec Provincial league is reported to be $10,000 plus living expenses and "extras." He has won five and lost one in the independent circuit. In 1946 he won six straight for the Cardinals before he jumped to the Mexican league.

Redbirds Have Won 13 Of Last 15 Since He Began To Connect

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

"As Stan Musial goes, so go the St. Louis Cardinals."

Never was a truer statement made.

Look at the record. Musial got off to a miserable start. So did the Cards. On May 24, just 15 days go, St. Louis' three-time batting champ was hitting a puny .250. Accordingly, the Cardinals were mired in seventh place with a 12-17 won and lost record.

Stan Musial

Since then, Stan the man has rapped out 22 hits in 58 times at bat for a .379 batting average. Conformably, the Redbirds went on a tear, winning 13 of the 15 games.

Today, Musial is hitting a steadily progressive .301, and the surging Cardinals are in second place, only a half game away from the top.

Blank Giants

The Redbirds whipped the New York Giants, 3-0, at the Polo Grounds last night, and as might be expected, it was Musial who provided the big punch. Stan clubbed two homers off Monte Kennedy, his 10th and 11th of the season, to drive in all the runs.

Either one would have been enough for southpaw Harry Brecheen. Harry, the Cat, looking more like the pitcher of 1948 than at any time this year, scattered five blows.

The victory moved the Cards past the Giants into second place, a half game behind the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Brooks took over undisputed possession of first place by trouncing Chicago, 7-1. The Giants dropped from a first place tie to fourth place, a half game behind the Boston Braves, who nipped the Cincinnati Reds, 6-5. The Braves trail the Cards by three percentage points.

The Braves tallied twice in the bottom half of the ninth to offset a one-run edge the Reds had built up in the top half of the inning. The winning run crossed the plate on a "prize boner" by Cincinnati outfielder Frank Baumholtz.

With one out, Al Dark sent a looping fly down the right field foul line, which Baumholtz caught in foul territory allowing Tommy Holmes to cross the plate with the winning run.

Two Doby Homers

The Philadelphia Phils duplicated Boston's stunt by scoring two runs in the bottom half of the ninth to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-5, after the Bucs had counted once in the top half of the inning.

Larry Doby crashed two homers to lead the Cleveland Indians to a 13-11 slugfest victory over the Washington Senators. Eight pitchers saw action, with Satchell Paige getting credit for the victory. Joe Haynes was charged with the defeat.

Red Embree won his second game against seven defeats for the St. Louis Browns this season, outpitching Mel Parnell of the Boston Red Sox, 5-2.

Maybe Another Parks Will Win Golf Open?

Chicago, June 8 (AP)—Remember Sam Parks, Jr.?

He captured the 1935 National Open at Pittsburgh's Oakmont Country club with 299, eleven over par. No one knew Parks before he won. Nobody has heard of him since.

He was the National Open's great "unknown" winner.

Freddie Corcoran, former PGA tournament bureau manager and now editor of golf's official guide, thinks the props are set for another rank outsider to snatch golf's most coveted title.

With the 49th National Open beginning tomorrow at Medinah's exacting No. 3 course a guy named Joe may shove the Nelsons, Sneads, Lockes, Demarets and Mangrums out of the headlines.

There are plenty of so-called small fries in the field of 162 teeing off in the first 18 hole session. They are heroes in their home territories but are lost in the herd outside.

They are hopefuls like Rip Arnold of Denver, Lou Broward of Jacksonville, Fla., Walt Blevens, Mission, Kas.; Joe Burch, Mobile Ala.; George Kinsman, Three Lakes, Wis.; Jerry Barber, Pasadena, Calif.; Mike Pavella, Washington, Pa.; Jack Harden, El Paso; John Stahl of New Orleans and scores of others.

Sam Parks, Jr.

Many won't be around when the field is sliced to the 60 low scorers for Saturday's 36-hole windup. Among those who are there may be a Parks.

"A lot of great shots will be wasted on this course," said Corcoran. "The fellow who wins will be shadowed by luck. The champion could easily be another Parks.

"It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

If Paul Vardigan ever tires of teaching, he could turn to public relations and do more than well enough to keep body and soul together.

* * *

Take my word for it. There is no more capable tub-thumper in these hyar parts than persistent Paul.

* * *

He has been promoting and reporting softball for, lo, these many years and doing a whale of a job of it. Thorough is the word for it.

* * *

But give him a special project like a Saperstein promotion coming to town and Vardigan goes to town all by himself. American Red Heads, Colored Collegians, Harlem Globe Trotters, Donkey ball—just name it, and before you can say Jackie Robinson (of the Dodgers, you know), Paul can give you all the angles.

* * *

Our mental picture of the industrious Vardigan is as follows: He is approaching our desk laden with placards, pictures, zinc cuts, paper mats, ballyhoo news releases and, of course, a free press pass for the newest extravaganza on the exhibition circuit. He is wearing a big smile, sparkling blue eyes and a softball cap that would put Eddie Arcaro to shame and would cause even Admiral Mitscher to blush.

* * *

I know—right away, without opening my mouth and putting my foot in it—that Paul is going to let me in on something good. His face tells me so.

* * *

I usually greet him with an alleged witticism. Something like: "Woddya say, Paul! What is it this time, Barnum and Bailey no less?"

* * *

We went through this routine yesterday, in fact.

* * *

Quick on the retort, he shot this at me:

* * *

"No, leave those clowns to Phineas T. This is good. This time it's the Milwaukee Jets, the 1948 American Softball association championship girls' team of Wisconsin, and they're coming here Friday night to play the Knights of Columbus of Escanaba.

* * *

"That's at 9:15 at Memorial Field—late start to catch the shoppers, you know—and there's a preliminary at 7:30 between the Liberty Loans twotime Escanaba champions, and the hot White Birch aggregation.

* * *

"The gals are good, really good. They've got a pitcher by the name of Marge Peters, who is no spring chicken, but can she pitch softball. She's been pitching for 19 years and they say she started when she was 13 years old.

* * *

"These Milwaukee Jets are champions, but after all they're girls, so they asked to play a Class C team or a team of old duffers. That's why we picked the K-Cs. They are both. In fact, I play on the K-C team, so I can say that.

* * *

"It's going to be a great show—The outstanding exhibition of the season."

* * *

See what we mean.

* * *

The only thing to do is to get on out there Friday and see that ball game. It's going to be good.

* * *

How do I know, you ask me?

* * *

Paul told me, didn't he?

City Junior Baseball, Softball Enthusiasts Will Meet Tomorrow

Jerome Deloria's junior baseball and softball enthusiasts of Escanaba and vicinity are asked to meet with him at the city recreation center at 4 tomorrow afternoon in preparation for the start of scheduled play Monday, June 13.

All entries must be in by tomorrow. Managers of teams still without sponsors are informed that sponsors may be obtained by inquiring at the recreation center. Approximately 40 teams will participate this season, Deloria said.

"Boys who have never touched a ball before are playing this year," he remarked, "and two teams have entered from Rock."

Boys in the 14-17 age group are particularly requested to attend the meeting tomorrow.

Deloria said all registration blanks and recreation department baseball equipment must be turned in at the meeting.

PREP TITLIST—Pictured here wearing a jaunty Scotch topper is Ron Hirn, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ed Hirn, Escanaba, who is the new Upper Peninsula individual high school golf champion. He was low medalist for the entire field in pacing St. Joseph's of Escanaba to its second successive Class C team title in the recent U. P. prep tourney at Crystal Falls. His older brother, Ray, is the Upper Peninsula Golf association champion, having won that honor by beating Menominee's Bruce Christensen in the finals at Marquette last August.

Smith, Dianetti Are Co-Captains In Spartan Track

East Lansing, June 8 (AP)—Horace Smith, Jackson hurdles expert, and Jack Dianetti, Middle distance star, today were named co-captains of the 1950 Michigan State track team.

Smith, who also doubles at fooball, is ICAA high and low hurdles champ. Dianetti recently won the Central Collegiate conference half mile.

Fred Johnson, Grandville, Mich., dashman, hurdler and broad jumper, was voted the M. M. Knappen merit award for "degree of hard, honest effort and team value."

Johnson is National AAU and IC4A broad jump champion and CCC king in both the broad jump and the 220 yard low hurdles.

The MSC track team is undefeated this year.

Newhouser Finally Tames Yanks, 5-2

Detroit, June 8 (AP)—Detroit's second place Tigers have hopes of picking up more ground on the league-leading New York Yankees when they meet tonight in the second game of their three-game series.

Hal Newhouser tamed the Yankees 5-2 yesterday in the series opener that saw Detroit move to within 5½ games of the pace-setters.

Virgil Trucks (7-3) was given the Detroit pitching assignment for tonight and will face Tommy Byrne (4-1) who beat the Tigers 12-0 on a three-hitter here May 8.

Newhouser's victory was his first against the Yankees after two setbacks at their hands this season.

It was doubly sweet to Detroit as it snapped the five-game winning streak of Yankee lefthander Ed Lopat.

Detroit bunched six of its nine hits in two innings when it scored all its runs, but for the rest of the time Lopat was pretty much in control of things.

Newhouser, who hasn't had too stout batting support from his teammates this season, had no reason to complain as they got him off to a two-run start in the first inning. He posted win No. 6 as against five losses.

Dayton 9 Takes Five Game Lead in Central

By The Associated Press

With Charley Sipple to thank, the pace-setting Dayton Indians enjoyed a five-game lead in the Central league again today.

Sipple, winning his seventh game against three defeats, beat the Muskegon Clippers Tuesday night, 5 to 4, although he gave up 11 hits.

The Saginaw Bears, recent league sensations, fell in 10 innings before the Charleston Senators, 4 to 3, but retained second place as Flint split with Grand Rapids.

Boost In Passenger Fares Requested by Eastern Railroads

Washington, (AP)—Eastern railroads have asked for another boost in passenger fares.

The 60-odd lines applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a 12½ per cent advance—the third passenger fare increase they have asked since the end of the war.

Whether the western and southern railroads will follow suit on the request, as they did the two previous times was not immediately clear.

The railroads operating east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers said they need higher passenger fares because of continuing deficits coupled with recent and prospective wage increases.

They said they had a record deficit of $252,177,000 from passenger operations in 1948.

Lure Book Sent By Bureau Office

More than 23,000 copies of the Lure Book have been mailed to date in response to requests received from prospective tourists by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau.

"This undoubtedly is one of the best records ever achieved by the Bureau's staff," James J. Beckman, President, said today. "Not only was the Lure Book off the press earlier than ever before, but the Bureau's office in Marquette has been expediting distribution to a degree not previously attained.

"This means that we are reaching prospective vacationists with our appealing literature before they have made up their minds about where they will spend their vacations. We have no doubt that the recreational lure we are advertising in the Lure Book will draw many of them to Upper Michigan."

Many of the inquiries for Lure Books have come direct to the Marquette office in response to Development Bureau advertising, while others were received at the offices of the Michigan Tourist Council and from "repeater" tourists with whom vacationing in the U. P. has become a habit.

Requests for the Lure Book have been centered, for the most part, in Lower Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, but they have been received from nearly every state in the union.
